TWO FAMILIES ROUTED BY EARLY MORNING FIRE

Dwelling at 4159 Grove Damaged—Home Destroyed During Occupants' Absence.

Fire of undetermined origin forced two families to flee from a dwelling at 4159 Grove street at 3 o'clock this morning.

The blaze was discovered in the apartment of Casper Sisler, on the second floor, causing $1000 damage to the furnishings. The building was damaged $1200 and furnishings on the first floor, occupied by John Wolf, were damaged $200.

The home of Max Berger, 7904
Morganford road, was destroyed by fire, which started at 7:30 o'clock last night while the family was away from home. The loss was estimated at $4000, partly insured. Origin was undetermined.

Fire of undetermined origin
caused $2000 damage to a dwelling and furnishings at 6743 Idaho avenue yesterday morning. The house is occupied by the families of J. O. Richardson and Mrs. Elsie Hicketta.

A broken trolley wire at Seventh and Gratiot streets set fire to a passing automobile driven by Henry Fertiz, 638 Seventh boulevard, at 6:30 o'clock last night, causing $125 damage. The wire snapped as a Lee avenue street car passed under it and it fell from the top of the car onto Fertiz's machine. Firemen were summoned to extinguish the blaze.

ADMIRAL SCHEER, GERMAN LEADER AT JUTLAND, DIES

Naval Commander in World War Succumbs While Traveling From Dresden to Mannheim.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 26. — Admiral Reinhard Scheer, who directed the German fleet at the battle of Jutland, on May 31, 1916, against a superior English fleet, died today at the age of 65. His death occurred as he was traveling from Dresden to Mannheim.

Promoted to the chief command of the imperial German fleet in February, 1916, Admiral Scheer conducted the historic battle so creditably that, in July, 1916, he succeeded Admiral von Holtzendorff as chief of the admiralty fleet.

Scheer was born on September 30, 1863, at Oberkirchen, Hesse-Nassau. He joined the navy, and in the eighties distinguished himself as a Lieutenant in skirmishes against the natives of Cameroon. After service in various departments of the imperial navy he became chief of the high seas fleet in 1910, with the rank of Rear Admiral. In 1915 he was placed in command of the third squadron of the imperial fleet.

After the war the Admiral wrote a book on "Germany's High Sea Fleet in the World War." He will be buried at Weimar on Thursday or Friday.

$50,000 LIBEL VERDICT FOR OKLAHOMA JUDGE

By the Associated Press.

ATOKA, Ok., Nov. 26. — A jury in District Court here yesterday returned a verdict for Justice J. W. Clark of the Oklahoma Supreme Court, and awarded him $50,000 damages against the Tulsa World and O. O. Owens, Tulsa oil man and legislator.

Justice Clark asked damages from the legislator and the newspaper for an alleged libelous signed political advertisement and article published in the World, attacking members of the Supreme Court. The jury's decision came after a short deliberation. A motion for a directed verdict being made and argued while the jury literally was at the courtroom door with a verdict signed by nine of its members, all that the law requires.

DUCKS CAUSE HEAVY LOSS TO ARKANSAS RICE CROPS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STUTTGART, Ark., Nov. 26. — For the past few weeks wild ducks have been damaging the shocked rice along the Arkansas River in the Stuttgart neighborhood to such extent that many of the farmers have been trying some method to prevent the ducks from eating the profit of those who depend upon their rice crops for a living. Many of the rice growers have secured permission to shoot ducks of a night in their own fields to protect their rice from total loss. Many other growers have put up lanterns on top of their rice shocks to keep the large flocks of ducks away during the nights, at which time they have been doing the most damage.

HOLDUP MEN ATTACK GIRL

Kidnap Her After Robbing Companions; Caught and Confessed.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Two hold-up men today kidnaped and attacked a 19-year-old girl after robbing the girl's boy companions. The girl and a high school chum were being escorted home from a club dance by three youths when two armed men appeared, held up the boys, and drove off with the girls. The chum jumped from the machine. Detectives later arrested William Kane and John Peck, taxi drivers, who confessed the robbery and attack.

ADVERTISMENT

"KONJOLA RESTORED MY HEALTH" HEARD THROUGHOUT CITY

Modern Medicine Received With Praise and Acclaim; Vast Crowds Calling on Konjola Man Daily.

Although the new medicine, Konjola, has been introduced in St. Louis but one week, it has already received the praise and acclaim of the Mound City's vast number of residents. Never, in the history of medicine has any remedy been known to take hold, become so popular and necessary, as Konjola. In the short time of a week there have been hundreds upon hundreds of people calling at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive Street, St. Louis, to learn of the merits of this remarkable medicine. Here the Konjola Man is explaining how Konjola reacts on the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels or quickly ends rheumatic and neuritis pains. Even now the words, "Konjola restored my health," are heard throughout the width and breadth of St. Louis. Reports are coming in from all sides, describing the amazing relief from health troubles through the use of this modern remedy. From outlying districts, suburbs and towns come a steady stream of voluntary endorsements. The wonders that Konjola work was graphically described in a statement received from Mrs. Nora Murrell, residing at 849 Grant Street, Springfield, Mo., who, although living in the State capital, has heard of Konjola, given it a trial and received glorious health as her reward. Read Mrs. Murrell's statement, sent to the Konjola Man; it holds a wealth of hope and happiness for all sufferers.

"What can I say that will give Konjola the praise it deserves, and what can I do to convince others of its remarkable merits," said the now healthy and happy Mrs. Murrell. "It has been a blessing to my health after ten long years of illness and constant suffering.

"Health is a cherished possession, and I lost mine through neglect. Ten years ago I started to suffer the pangs of indigestion and stomach trouble. That I grew worse is shown by the fact that recently I could not eat a meal without enduring miseries immediately after. My black spots appeared before my eyes. Every morsel of food caused a grinding, gnawing sensation in the very pit of my stomach. Fermentation and indigestion pains were the natural result. The shattering of my nerves was the climax. I had become a physical wreck, and the future held no hope of relief or happiness for me. I feared that I would lose my mind as I often caught myself tearing at my clothes in a state of distraction.

"In my search for relief—hopeless as it seemed to be—I heard about Konjola. Even at this distance from its point of introduction, there was nothing but words of praise and gratitude for its remarkable restoration to health. I could not afford to allow such a chance for betterment slip by. I sent for a treatment, consisting of six bottles. You can imagine the surprise and delight that awaited me when the first bottle made a marked improvement on my health. The stomach trouble became less severe and intense. Food began digesting better than for ten years. My appetite was restored, and now I eat three hearty meals a day. Those ugly symptoms I have described to you have vanished. O, what a pleasure it is to have health again. Never let it slip away from you. The strengthening of my nerves was only a matter of two weeks. The future holds all the brightness and interest of a normal, healthy life. For this I owe a debt of gratitude to Konjola. Take my advice, eliminate all causes for disease—restore your health, and Konjola will do it. I know!"

The Konjola Man is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive Street, St. Louis, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free samples given.

KIDNAPED AFTER BEING HELD UP FOR $150

East St. Louis Filling Station
Manager Brought Across River in Auto.

Lester Dilkey, manager of a filling station at Tenth and Market streets, East St. Louis, reported he was robbed of $150 last night by two men who compelled him to leave his station and ride with them over the Municipal Bridge to Ninth street and Chouteau avenue,
St. Louis, where they put him out of their car. Dilkey said he passed policemen at the west end of the bridge, but was afraid to cry out.

When three men in an automobile attempted a holdup at the filling station of Peter Chinnick, 5100
Shaw avenue, he drove them back to their car with an iron bar and tore off their rear license plate which he turned over to police. It had been issued to a Springfield, Mo., man.

Joseph Tracy, attendant at a filling station at Morganford road and Connecticut street, was slugged by three men who drove up to his place, but they made no attempt to rob him, he told police.

Oil Station Manager Robbed.

Herman Nichols, in charge of a filling station at 4301 North Grand boulevard, was robbed of $100 by an armed man. Lewis Hitchcock, 1501 Wagoner place, was robbed of $5.95 by an armed Negro near his home.

Joseph Catalano, fruit dealer, 5232 Kensington avenue, was held up and robbed of $225 by two armed Negroes early yesterday as he was putting his truck in a garage at his home. As the Negroes escaped through the yard they seized a purse containing a wrist watch and bracelet, valued at $55, from Mrs. Catalano, who was waiting for her husband.

Maurice Greene, New York jewelry salesman, a guest at the Maryland Hotel, reported a bag of rings and watches, which he valued at $2900, was stolen from his automobile, parked on the street.

While Mrs. Caroline Bischoff, 5710 Michigan avenue, entertained last night, a burglar stole $74
from the purses of five guests.

A burglar got $2 cash and jewelry valued at $200 at the home of Louis
F. Schneider, 5911 Bancroft avenue.

Caught in School.

James Dillinger, custodian of the Walnut Park School, captured a young man in the building yesterday after desks in seven rooms had been rifled. The prisoner had 13 door keys, pencils, car tokens, a watch and a woman's diamond ring, but denied stealing them. He said he had entered the school to

CONVICTED OF KILLING WOMAN NEIGHBOR IN FEUD

Twin Falls (Idaho) Dairyman to Get Life Sentence if Jury's Recommendation Is Accepted.

By the Associated Press.
TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 26.—
Ward Otis Tharp, dairyman, who killed his neighbor, Mrs. Lois May Bowen, during a neighborhood feud Sept. 26, was convicted of first degree murder by a jury here yesterday. Life imprisonment was recommended.

Evidence brought out at the six-day trial was to the effect that Tharp killed Mrs. Bowen in her dooryard when she remonstrated against a beating Tharp and his two sons were alleged to have administered to her 14-year-old daughter and four other children.
Bad feeling existed between the Tharp and Bowen families and another family as the result of a long-standing quarrel over use of a private road near the Twin Falls city limits.

War Souvenirs Give Fire Alarm.
By the Associated Press.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 26.—
Explosion of cartridge shells, souvenirs saved from the World War, probably saved the lives of S. L. Beard and his family last midnight. Beard, his wife and two children, escaped by a window, when they found escape by doors impossible, after being awakened
by the explosion of shells as fire was consuming their home.

JAIL TERMS FOR TWO WOMAN BOOTLEGGERS

East St. Louisans Sentenced by U. S. Judge Wham on Pleas of Guilty.

Mrs. Bernard Mottar, 2007 Trendley avenue, East St. Louis, and Helen Southern, 626 Collinsville avenue, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Wham in East St. Louis today of violating the liquor laws. Miss Southern was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $100. Mrs. Mottar got 30 days in jail and was fined $25. Her husband was sentenced for five months and fined $150.

Benjamin Wrightson and his two sons, who operated a pool room at Johnson City, Ill., were convicted of liquor violations. The father and Earl, his 24-year-old son, were fined $100 and sentenced to seven months in jail. Harley, 23, received 90 days in jail and $100 fine. Five others who pleaded guilty of liquor violations were: Archie Allen, Belleville, $300 and six months; John Rossman, his bartender, $50 and 60 days; Joe Lamontagne, Bourbonnais, Ill., $50 and 60 days; Peter Miller, Kankakee, Ill., $300 and 90 days; Andrew Turasky, $50 and 60 days.

EVA TANGUAY, WHO STILL DOESN'T CARE, AT ST. LOUIS

Gerber's Galettes, Al Abbott and Bennington's Band on Bill.
Movie Is "Sal of Singapore."

It isn't always the highest priced act on a vaudeville bill that gives the best entertainment. There is, at the St. Louis Theater this week, a blonde sister team in Gerber's Galettes which has the outstanding bit of the show. The girls do a first rate novelty clog while chained together at wrists and ankles.

Eva Tanguay, the headliner, still doesn't care. She prances around the stage costumed in a circus pony, singing stridently of one thing or another. She is satisfied, she yells, so long as she gets the money. And so, apparently, are the cash customers. The interest in little Eva, of course, is in the mere sight of her historic person.

The program is full of pleasant surprises. Al Abbott has a good line of rube impersonations with a character song for each. "Ship Ahoy" is a rather ordinary flash musical tabloid with three men and three women. Charles Bennington, peg-legged dancer, brings the show to a close with his New York Newsboys' Harmonica Band. The motion picture is "Sal of Singapore," with Phyllis Haver, Allen Hale and Fred Kohler—not a bad sentimental melodrama, though its full possibilities aren't realized.

ALASKANS IN SMALLPOX AREA TO BE SHOT FOR LEAVING Quarantine Established in Central West of Territory; U. S. Taking Precautions.

By the Associated Press.
JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 25.—A shotgun quarantine to prevent the spread of smallpox, usually fatal to Indians and Eskimos, has been established in the region of the lower Yukon after an outbreak in Central Western Alaska. Persons in the area are weighing the chances of being marked by smallpox, if they remain, against the certainty of being marked by bird shot if they attempt to leave.

A. J. Sutherland, Deputy Health Commissioner, is in Marshall, having gone by airplane to enforce vaccination of all inhabitants. Five cases of the disease were reported at Marshall, and more are reported at Mountain Village, 80 miles down river.

Henry (Ill.) Loses Right to Slogan
When Government Starts
Razing Barrier.

HENRY, Ill., Nov. 25.—Henry, "the best city in Illinois by a dam site," is about to lose its distinctive slogan. The 550-foot Government dam, built across the Illinois River here half a century ago, is being removed by the United States War Department.

The city's slogan is the first thing a visitor entering Henry sees. It has been placed on billboards at every entrance to the city by the Chamber of Commerce. Removal of the dam is expected to be completed by the middle of December. The lock in the river is to be left intact, however, and may be used as a dry dock if traffic on the river justifies.

HELD ON AUTO THEFT CHARGE

Peter Stallone, 22 years old, who was acquitted several months ago of a weapon-carrying charge here, was brought back to St. Louis last night in connection with several charges against him of interstate traffic in stolen automobiles. He was arrested in Woodriver, Ill., with a companion, when attempting to sell a new Ford automobile that had been stolen in Springfield for $250.

Both Stallone and his companion, Frank Heines, had revolvers under their pillows when they were arrested in their Woodriver hotel room. Heines was held for Springfield police.

RADIO BANDS RESERVED FOR NEWS ACROSS SEA

Trustee for Publishers Present Proposed Schedule to Federal Commission.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Joseph Pierson, as trustee for the American Publishers' Committee, today submitted to the Radio Commission the allocation by the committee of the 20 channels reserved in the transoceanic band for the use of press associations and newspapers. The Radio Commission will meet within a few days to dispose of the matter. The corporations to which these channels were assigned are as follows: The Chicago Tribune Wireless, Inc.; the New York Times Wireless, Inc.; the New York Herald Tribune Wireless, Inc.; the Press Publishing Co. Wireless, Inc.; Universal Service Wireless, Inc.; United Press Wireless, Inc.; Scripps Howard Newspaper Alliance Wireless, Inc.; the Los Angeles Times Wireless, Inc.; the San Francisco Chronicle Wireless Corporation, Ltd.; the American News Traffic Corporation and Consolidated Press Wireless, Inc.

The American News Traffic Corporation received several wave lengths, and it is understood that through it other press services may enter the field.

The Radio Commission has given the newspapers and press associations until Jan. 1 to complete their transmitters. Already five transmitters are ready, Pierson said. Affidavits were filed by Pierson and by Louis Lobe, representing the New York Times, in support of the application of the American Publishers' Committee for permission to use frequencies in the intra-continental band.

Nurse Tells How To Heal Eczema

Says simple remedy stops burning, itching tortures
If you really want to get rid of burning, itching skin troubles, simply use Dr. Dennis' famous prescription D. D. D.—which has brought relief to thousands. It quickly breaks eczema, scales, rashes, pimples, blotches, and other skin troubles. Pure, cooling liquid D. D. D. penetrates the skin, soothing and calming the irritated tissues. Stops itching instantly. Clear, graceful, and stainless, dries up almost immediately. A 35c bottle will prove the merit of the famous antiseptic, or your money back. At all drug stores or D. D. D. Laboratory, Batavia, Illinois.

Don't dope YOUR COUGH

It is not wise to use remedies which depend upon "dope" such as narcotics, chloroform, cannabis or tar products. They may stop your cough temporarily by numbing the tissues, as most cough mixtures do, but this is not enough.

The inflamed air passages must be soothed naturally; the germ-infected mucus loosened and expelled in order to effect a lasting recovery.

BYRD'S SHIP LOADED UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Bolling Sails for Dunedin, N.Z., After Taking on Wellington Cargo.

By JOSEPH DE GANAH.
(Copyright, 1928, by St. Louis Post-Dispatch and New York Times. World Rights Reserved.)
This story is published exclusively in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All news articles from members of the Byrd party, or from special correspondents assigned to it, will appear only in the Post-Dispatch in this city.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Nov. 24 (by wireless).—The Eleanor Bolling of the Byrd expedition left for Dunedin today loaded to the Pimsel mark with airplanes and other supplies. At Dunedin part of the cargo will be transhipped to the City of New York. The entire task of loading was very difficult. It has been handled by the Harbor Board, which placed at the disposal of Commander Richard E. Byrd a big floating crane, a crew of stevedores and expert loaders.

Getting the big crates, particularly the long Byrd fuselage, into the ship taxed the ingenuity of all but it was done without a single slip or damage. The co-operation of New Zealand officials both at Wellington and Dunedin has been perfect. The work could not have been done so well without them.

Everything Aboard Harmonious.
The Eleanor Bolling was accompanied out of the harbor by several small boats, which took off friends and well wishers who desired to make the first leg of the trip on the ship which is part of the expedition. It was a perfect day, with a brisk breeze chasing light clouds under a blue sky. It offered a marked contrast to what the Eleanor Bolling and the City of New York will encounter when they hit the stiff seas and gales of the roaring forties.

Everyone aboard the Eleanor Bolling is happy and working harmoniously, auguring well for carrying out the difficult work they must do.

Commander Byrd today announced the appointment of Richard Brophy as second in command of the expedition, a reward which was well merited because of his hard work in assembling all the materials of the expedition.

Brophy May Leave the Ice.
Brophy may not remain on the ice during the winter, because his presence is needed at Dunedin when the ships return to handle the return of the crews and also to take charge of the return of the expedition next year. He is needed on the ice until the ships leave, however, as no one else knows so much of the details of all the supplies.

The appointment was universally approved among members of the expedition, with whom Brophy is very popular because of his good humor and efficient handling of his exacting tasks.

The first ship to leave Dunedin will be the City of New York, and she may get away Thanksgiving day, carrying a large part of the supplies, planes, the dogs and the bulk of the personnel. The Eleanor Bolling will follow when ice conditions become safe for her passage through the pack.

Last of Byrd's Ships Arrives at Dunedin, N. Z.

By the Associated Press.
WELLINGTON, N. Z., Nov. 26.—All the units of Commander Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition were assembled at Dunedin today for the first time since the first contingent left the United States. Commander Byrd will leave for the Ross Sea on Saturday aboard the bark "City of New York." The other supply ship will leave soon afterwards.

COOLIDGE TO SPEND WEEK-END IN BLUE RIDGE MOUNTAINS

President Reads Thanksgiving Proclamation Over National Radio Hook-Up.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—An extensive radio hook-up was assembled last night for President Coolidge to read his Thanksgiving day proclamation.

The President had the microphone installed in his study so that it was unnecessary for him to leave the White House to participate in the Thanksgiving program which was arranged for last night instead of later in the week, because Mr. Coolidge will leave Washington to spend a Thanksgiving vacation in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia. The President, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge and a small party, will have a quiet week-end there except for Thanksgiving day itself, when a rather full program has been arranged for him.

On the holiday Mr. Coolidge has tentatively agreed to attend a union service at the Baptist Church in Charlottesville and he has accepted an invitation for luncheon with President Edwin A. Alderman of the University of Virginia to which the Governors of North Carolina and Virginia also have been invited. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge hope to attend the Virginia-North Carolina football game at Charlottesville, but the President will spend not more than 15 minutes at the game.

Mr. Coolidge may do a little clay pigeon shooting for which he developed a fondness during his summer vacation in Wisconsin.

Taft Confers With Coolidge.

RENEW DEMAND FOR MISSOURI TO USE BUDGET PLAN

Associated Industries to Introduce Bills to Next Legislature to Put State on Business Basis.

BLOCKED THUS FAR BY POLITICIANS

Supporters of Proposal, However, Have Tentative Approval of Gov.-Elect Caulfield.

By CURTIS A. BETTS. At the approaching session of the Missouri Legislature, which convenes Jan. 2, another attempt is to be made to put the business of the State of Missouri on a business basis. Blocked for two years by political job holders, whose prerogatives would be threatened by any orderly arrangement of the State's affairs, the Associated Industries again will introduce its bills for establishment of a budget system, for the creation of several purchasing bureaus and for the consolidation of departments to avoid duplication, and in some instances triplication, of government activities and consequent increased expense.

In the last two years the Associated Industries has presented its plan to influential citizens in more than three-fourths of the counties, and has obtained the support of business and professional men throughout the State. Also, Governor-elect Caulfield is on record in general terms in approval of the efforts at reorganization. If his active help is obtained, the bills probably will be adopted.

Annual Expense $55,000,000. The business of the State government has been aptly described as that of a huge corporation, managed by a few elected officials, serving in the capacity of directors, for the nearly 4,000,000 residents of the State, who may be classed as stockholders.

This State corporation does business at an annual expense of nearly $55,000,000, having expanded from a $3,000,000 business in 12 years. It is engaged in the giving of service to all the citizens of the State. It is a manufacturer, making roads, shoes, clothing and many other things. It is a lawyer and doctor, having legal staffs and supervising the practice of medicine. Likewise it is a huge educational and charitable organization. It is in the agricultural business on a large scale. In effect, it is in the banking and insurance business, having the supervision of some 1500 State banks and trust companies and of many insurance companies. It supervises the business of vast public utility interests. It manages a military establishment.

Cost Is Paid by Citizens. And every cent that goes to every one of these activities comes, directly or indirectly, from the pockets of the citizens. The per capita cost is in excess of 15 cents. That is, if each citizen of the State paid an equal share he would pay a little more than 15 cents. It is safe to say, that everybody contributes something, indirectly, if not out of pocket. For an understanding of what might be accomplished by applying business principles to the State government, it is necessary to know how the State government functions now, and an explanation of the government is the purpose of this article.

Divisions of Government. Under the Constitution there are three separate divisions of State government—legislative, judicial and executive. The Legislature passes laws and appropriates all the money to carry on the government. The judicial has to do only with the courts. The executive has control of everything else. It is with the executive branch that particular interest lies in a consideration of the need for reorganization of the State's operations, as under it is expended approximately $54,000,000 of the total of $55,000,000.

In the executive division are seven elective State officials, Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Attorney-General, Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer and Superintendent of Public Instruction, and 126 boards, bureaus, commissions and other agencies, nearly all appointed by the Governor. The Governor has the job of general administration of State affairs, the other officials having rather limited duties. The Lieutenant-Governor presides over the State Senate and serves as Governor when the executive is out of the State. The Attorney-General is the chief law officer of the State, representing the State in all criminal cases reaching the Supreme Court, and being the legal adviser.

At the approaching session of the Missouri Legislature, which convenes Jan. 2, another attempt is to be made to put the business of the State of Missouri on a business basis. Blocked for two years by political job holders, whose prerogatives would be threatened by any orderly arrangement of the State's affairs, the Associated Industries again will introduce its bill for establishing a budget system, for the creation of a central purchasing bureau and for the consolidation of departments to avoid duplication, and in some instances triplication, of government activities and consequent increased expense.

This State corporation does business at an annual expense of nearly $55,000,000, having expanded from a $9,000,000 business in 1912 years.

It is with the executive branch that particular interest lies in a consideration of the need for reorganization. It is expended approximately $24,000,000 of the total of $55,000,000.

In the executive division are seven elective State officials, Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Attorney-General, Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer and Superintendent of Public Instruction, and 12 boards, bureaus, commissions and other agencies, nearly all appointed by the Governor.

of State officials. The Secretary of State is keeper of the seal and his office is the depository of all general State records. The Auditor is the auditor of accounts and the Treasurer is the keeper of the State's money. The Superintendent of Public Instruction has general supervision of the State school system, except the State university and the State Teachers' College, which are managed by boards appointed by the Governor.

Direct and Indirect Taxation.
The Government has the job of collecting from the citizens the funds necessary for the management of their public affairs, and the spending of that money. In the beginning it was the theory that funds were to be derived by a direct tax on the property of the citizens, but there has been a gradual change of system until at the present time only a small part of the State revenue comes from direct taxation. Most of it is from indirect taxes and fees.

In 1901 and 1902 the total State revenues amounted to $10,550,859.76, of which $6,479,862.30 was from direct property taxes. In 1925 and 1926, the two last years for which complete figures are available, the revenues were $109,865,211.40, of which only $9,967,712.36 was from direct taxes. The balance, or approximately $100,000,000, was from bonds voted by the people, to be paid by indirect taxation, from indirect taxes of various kinds and from inspection fees.

Creating Revenue Sources.
The growth of executive government by bureaus and commissions has been gradual in Missouri. Need for additional revenue has caused the creation of new sources of revenue, such as the income tax and the inheritance tax, and with it the creation of new commissions to supervise the collection. From time to time governmental activities have been broadened to provide for inspections of various kinds, and almost always a new inspection department has been created to do the inspecting instead of adding the duties to those of a department in existence.

This has meant that as the years have gone by the duties of department heads have increased until now it is not unusual for several inspectors to appear at the same place of business at the same time to make separate inspections, all of which could be made by one, at a saving to the State.

Inspects Overlap.
A candidate in the last campaign gave a somewhat exaggerated illustration of the condition in a story he told.

"I was tied up at a crossroads not long ago by automobile trouble," he said. "I loitered in a shack of a store there waiting for help. The store was conducted by a farmer in the corner of his farm. While I was there, five State inspectors dropped in. One inspected his herd of cows for tuberculosis. Another inspected the canned goods on the shelves of his store. Another inspected the eggs, to see if they had been candied. Another inspected the gasoline tank in front and the last one called to see whether the farmer-merchant was observing the child labor law. Nearly every one of them collected a fee, and each one charged up expenses to the State."

The State's principal single activity, and it will continue to be so for many years, is the building of roads, handled through the State Highway Commission, appointed by the Governor. In 1925 and 1926 a total of $61,445,622.88 was spent in highway construction, the money derived from a bond issue and Federal aid, the bonds to be paid from the automobile license receipts and the gasoline tax.

NATIONS PREPARE FOR WAR DESPITE TALK OF PEACE

Armament Expenditures of Civilized Countries Increase Steadily, According to League Survey.

HIGHER THAN BEFORE GREAT CONFLICT

Greatest Advance in Military Outlay Is in Soviet Russia and the United States.

By ALBIN E. JOHNSON.

GENEVA, Nov. 25.—With the entire world talking peace without a single war on the horizon and with only two or three danger spots in Europe, the nations are silently and seriously preparing for war.

Despite the League of Nations, the Washington treaty, the Locarno pact, the Kellogg pact and the arbitration and conciliation treaties between various countries, the civilized nations almost without exception are spending more money on armaments than ever before.

A steady increase, both in the budgets and in actual armament expenditures of the big powers, including Germany and Russia, is shown by statistics compiled by the League's financial and economic experts, and just now made available.

Startling comparisons show that the United States and Russia lead the world in their percentage increase, while France is a close third. Statisticians, who have taken into consideration exchange fluctuations, have compiled the figures on a gold basis. These statisticians have also taken note of the figures money value and purchasing powers.

Europe's Armament Bill.
In 1909, Europe's armaments bill was $1,637,000,000. In 1926 it was $2,150,000,000.

The League's armaments statistics, which recently were published, show that the five largest armed countries—Britain, France, Italy, the United States and Japan—spent $1,436,000,000 in armaments in 1926 were $1,787,000,000.

Expenditures in 1913 and 1926 follow: Great Britain, $374,000,000, as against $684,000,000; France, $239,000,000 and $384,000,000; Italy, $142,000,000 and $64,000,000; the United States, $431,000,000 and $592,000,000, and Japan from $104,000,000 to $207,000,000.

In spite of the fact that peace for the most part has existed since 1923, the League's statistics show steadily advancing war budgets. All this, despite the gradual liquidation of all war scars.

Sporadic Fighting.
In 1926 the only fighting that took place was that of the Druses against the French in Syria, the Rifians against the French in Spanish Morocco and the civil war in China. Today there is sporadic fighting between the inhabitants of Tripolitania and the Italians. Furthermore, a theoretical state of war exists between Poland and Lithuania, but both have pledged themselves to refrain from hostilities.

The Hungarian belligerency against its neighbors is entirely verbal.

The greatest danger lies in the Adriatic between the Italians and the Jugo-Slavs.

The hitherto available 1929 armaments estimates show an unprecedented upward trend. Russia's armaments expenditure has doubled since 1925. The United States shows more than $100,000,000 increase over the same period. France's expenditures have leaped from $276,000,000 in 1925 to $388,000,000 in 1926, and next year's budget calls for $440,000,000 for armaments. Even Germany shows a steady increase from $125,000,000 in 1925 to $178,000,000 in 1926.

In England, where wholesale prices have fallen 11 per cent and retail prices by 4 per cent since 1924 armaments expenditures have increased from $551,760,000 to $585,000,000 in the last fiscal year. Paradoxically, while there is a world wide growth in armaments expenditures, peace psychology is likewise gaining. The League's disarmament organizations are piling up anti-war evidence, and they have registered distinct advances since they took up this work.

Radicals Fight Budget.
The French radical Socialists have joined the Socialists in opposition to Poincare's military budget. The British Laborites and Liberals have joined in attacking Baldwin's foreign policy, while the German

BOGUS PROFESSOR EXPOSED BY COURT AS EXTORTIONIST

Woman Claims "Mystery Man of Callegro," Italy, as Her Husband, Missing Many Years.

FRAUD DISCLOSED BY ATTACK OF AMNESIA

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Publishing Co., New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

TURIN, Nov. 26.—The partisan rift which for the last two years has divided Italy into two camps—Brunerites and Canellists—has been healed. These are not political parties within the Fascist regime, but are two factions of opinion on the identity of the "mystery man of Callegro"—a bogus professor who has turned out to be a criminal.

At last the courts of this city, with Judge Danza presiding, have ruled that the so-called Prof. Giulio Canella, who has for the past 15 months been living with his wife and children, is none other than the vagabond and criminal Mario Bruneri, wanted by the Italian police for a series of frauds and extortions.

Mrs. Canella, who has maintained that the mystery man is her long lost husband, is now facing arrest and trial.

This strange affair began two years ago when the Callegro asylum, near this city, gave the local press the story that for more than a year previously a patient, who had lost his memory, must be something more than the tramp he had appeared to be when arrested in a cemetery one winter morning for trying to steal a bronze urn from a grave.

Recognized by Family.

Such was the mystery surrounding this apparently sane and sane man that the authorities decided then to publish his picture in the newspapers. In Verona Mrs. Canella recognized the picture and claimed him as her husband. Other members of the family and some citizens from Canella's home town, Verona, including the Bishop also recognized him.

So he was allowed to go with his presumed wife after a few formalities, but a week after he was arrested, for the police had come to the conclusion that he was Mario Bruneri. But when brought face to face with him the wife, children and mother of Bruneri, testified this man who was supposed to have lost his memory, was their relative, a printer, who had been in prison many times.

Mrs. Canella, however, refused to accept this state of affairs and appealed to Mussolini in person to have the case thoroughly threshed out. She alleged that during the week he had been allowed to stay at her home, the man had gradually recognized his two children, asked questions about people and things she had half forgotten and had described to his sister their father's bedroom in Padua, with precision, although the home had been broken up 20 years before. He had even recalled to the Bishop, she asserted, a conversation they had together on the steps of the cathedral before he had gone to war.

Canella Kept in Custody.

But the authorities insisted on holding Canella under custody in the Callegro Asylum, where he remained a year, becoming the mystery man about whom a battle of public opinion waged, and behaving like an amiable person whom the war had deprived of nerves and memory.

Again the lower court declared him to be Canella. But the police appealed and the case has now been declared in their favor. Citizens of Verona, once so sure that the mystery man was the cultured professor, have had doubts about it ever since the mystery man has proved to have very little culture.

Naturally enough, Bruneri had played a deep game from the time Mrs. Canella claimed him to be her husband. Some maintain that Judge Danza overruled the lower court without any fresh evidence because the police, having mixed up finger prints, will not admit their mistake.

CITY'S TRANSIT ENGINEER FAVORS ELEVATED LINES, SUBWAYS WHERE NECESSARY

Rudolph F. Kelker Jr. for Low Fare and Indeterminate Franchise That Would Permit Municipal Ownership if Desired.

By CARLOS F. HURD,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Rudolph F. Kelker Jr., who will begin work this week as engineer of the St. Louis Transportation Survey Commission, believes that rapid transit is a necessity of modern city growth.

The city that fails to provide rapid transit facilities is taking a step backward," he said, in speaking today of the needs of St. Louis, and of other cities of its class.

"Today," he continued, "every street crossing is a grade crossing. Rapid transit construction is grade crossings elimination."

He used the term "rapid transit" rather than the word "subways," which the St. Louis Commission has emphasized in discussions of its program.

Just how much subway construction St. Louis needs is a matter on which Kelker was not ready to express himself, though he has some acquaintance with St. Louis conditions. He will need to make a careful study of the city's problem, with those several subways which the St. P. R. T. company refused to operate on any terms but its own.

"An indeterminate franchise for St. Louis should be so framed as to provide that when rapid transit facilities are built, they shall be used for the public benefit."

Kelker, who is engineer for the Transportation Commission of the Chicago City Council, told of the effort which he is now making to have the city aid in financing needed extensions of the elevated and surface lines.

His plan relates to the $60,000,000 fund which the city of Chicago has accumulated from its levy on street car fare receipts. He wishes to keep the principal intact, and to use the interest—about $3,500,000 a year—in buying a part of the bonds issued by the company for its extensions. This plan, with an indeterminate franchise for operation of the lines, would make possible the sale of the rest of the bonds to the public on favorable terms. The company has not favored the future mean city ownership.

One of the problems which Kelker considers to be closely connected with rapid transit in St. Louis is the development of a terminal district between Seventh street and the Mississippi River. On this point the work of the Transportation Commission would connect closely with that of the City Plan Commission. E. J. Russell, head of the transportation body, is also chairman of the City Plan Commission.

It is his wish to find a plan of keeping the public informed of the transportation work as the work proceeds. Besides circulating newspaper co-operation, he wishes to have a series of leaflets issued, telling of the commission's plans, what it is expected to accomplish, and what the cost will be.

"I don't want to wait until I am through and then issue a bulky report containing everything," he said. "Of course there will have to be a report for the city's use, but the public will not read long reports. All the important points should be told, in concise and interesting form, in leaflets to be printed as the work proceeds. These could be distributed in public places, perhaps in the street cars."

"Cut and Over" Subway.
Such subways as are built—and no one has suggested anything but a subway for the central downtown streets east of Twelfth boulevard—can be constructed without such long term interference with traffic and business as occurred in New York, Kelker said. The "cut and over" method of subway construction would be suitable here, and the soil does not present such difficulties as the rock base of Manhattan Island.

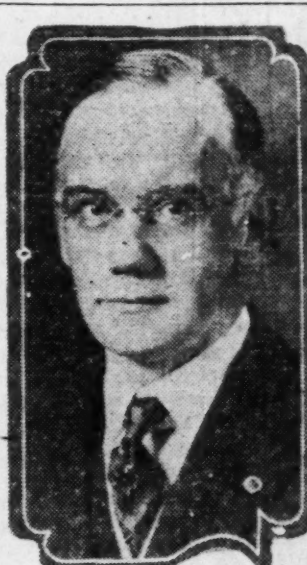

"Cut and over" construction is the building of a temporary upper surface for a street, under which the work of excavation can be carried on until the original pavement can be replaced.

As to Subways.
The report made by C. E. Smith, former consulting engineer for the city, which Kelker will study, recommends east and west tunnels under Washington avenue, Market and Olive streets. Kelker thinks construction of pairs of tubes more feasible than the New York system of local and express tracks together. Even with the immense traffic of New York, he says, the local tracks are unprofitable. Express trains can be run on two tracks, and with by-pass tracks at certain points, he says.

He believes in running subway and elevated trains rather than operating single street cars over an elevated line," he commented. "St. Louis," he said, "should avoid what happened in Philadelphia, where the Frankfort 'L' stood idle until Mr. Mitten was ready to make a contract with the city to operate it. That city had something the same experience with its Broad street subway, which the P. R. T. company refused to operate on any terms but its own."

His plan relates to the $60,000,000 fund which the city of Chicago has accumulated from its levy on street car fare receipts. $35,000,000 EACH YEAR URGED FOR FLOOD CONTROL

Newton Tells Mississippi Valley Association That Amount Is Necessary to End Work in 10 Years.

W. R. DAWES LIKELY TO SUCCEED SMITH

1928 "Red Letter Year" for Waterways Development, Dwight Davis Says—Hoover Is Praised.

Appropriation by Congress of at least $25,000,000 for flood control improvement during the next fiscal year was declared necessary by former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton, and 1928 was described as "a red letter year" in inland waterway development by Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis at the opening session of tenth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Association at Hotel Statler today.

A note of optimism pervaded the session both in the scheduled addresses and in the informal discussions. President-elect Hoover was mentioned frequently by the speakers as a champion of waterways projects and his present trip to South America was declared to have an important relation to the waterways of the Mississippi Valley because of its effect on trade with South American countries.

A telegram to Newton, sent by Hoover before he departed on his tour, in which he thanked the members of the association "for the service they have been in the development of a proper understanding of the inland waterway problem" was read at the opening of the meeting.

About 1200 delegates from 26 states were present and more were expected to arrive during the day. Davis asserted that more progress has been made in the development of the inland waterways during the past four years than in any similar period in the history of the United States. This development, he said, included not only the physical improvement of the channels but the passage of the Denison Act and the instigation of a survey for the adoption of a coordinated plan of development for navigation, irrigation, reclamation, power and flood control.

W. L. Dawes, President of the association to exert themselves to insure standardized channels through the Mississippi Valley system and declared it essential that Congress revise the project on the upper Mississippi between St. Louis and Minneapolis and the project on the Missouri between St. Louis and Kansas City to provide for nine-foot channels.

William E. Dawes, Chicago financier and second cousin of Charles G. Dawes, Vice President of the United States, appeared to be the most likely candidate for election as president of the association to succeed James E. Smith of St. Louis, who has retired after 30 years of activity in waterways development.

Dawes today was the favorite of many delegates and others who previously had supported J. C. Nichols of Kansas City, vice president of the Missouri River Navigation Association, or former Congressman Newton, now general counsel of the association, aligned themselves with Dawes when it was learned that Nichols and Newton favored him. The election will be held at the closing session tomorrow afternoon.

Denison and Reed to Speak.
Besides Secretary Davis and Newton, the program for today included addresses by Nichols, Dawes, Senator Norris of Nebraska, Minnesota, Congressman E. E. Denison of Illinois, M. J. Sanders of the advisory board of the Inland Waterways Corporation; Congressman William E. Hull of Illinois and Brigadier-General Herbert Deakney, Assistant Chief of Engineers, United States Army. A banquet will be held this evening with Senator James A. Reed and Roy Miller, vice president of the Intracoastal Canal Association of Louisiana and Texas, as speakers.

The program for tomorrow includes addresses by Major-General T. Q. Ashburn, chairman and executive of the Inland Waterways Corporation; Congressman John McFadden of Alabama; Stewart Gilman, Sioux City, La.; Mercer Reynolds, Chattanooga, Tenn.; William F. Mulvihill, Illinois, Superintendent of Water Construction, and C. D. Sturtevant, president of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary Davis told the delegates that the flood control plan adopted at the last session of Congress is being prosecuted with the utmost vigor and that it is expected that the entire appropriation of $24,000,000 made available last May will be spent by the end of

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely passing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

New Lights and Street Signs.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

OUR new light standards are "things of beauty and a joy forever," but, oh, those new street signs that are attached to them! A prize should be offered to the one who can read 10 consecutive street signs while traveling at the rate of seven miles per hour and at the same time not straining the eyesight or endangering traffic.

I have no doubt that serious accidents have been caused, or will be caused, by drivers trying to read our present signs and also keep their car under proper control. (Safety Council, take note.) It must have been someone who tried to read St. Louis street signs who originated the saying, "We don't know where we're going but we're on our way."

Taxes for Playgrounds.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I AM a taxpayer, living in the vicinity of Tower Grove near the Adams School, where the city is putting up a neighborhood playground.

What is the matter with the bond issue? If there isn't enough money to pay for these playgrounds for the poor children, what is the idea of taking the bill right to the door of the father? Is there any good in that?

A TAXPAYER.

Position of the Washington Avenue Association.

THE baseball fan who has criticized the Washington Avenue Improvement Association is entirely wrong. The Washington Avenue Association would very enthusiastically favor the opening and widening of Spring avenue from Gravois to Natural Bridge.

The Washington Avenue Association is opposed to the present plan of opening a new street less than 500 feet west of Grand boulevard. Such a street would cost several millions of dollars and be a hindrance to traffic on Delmar, Washington, Olive, Lindell and Pine.

A hearing on this matter will be held in room 208, City Hall, on Nov. 27, at 10 a. m.

WASHINGTON AVENUE PROPERTY OWNER.

St. Louis' 700 Beverage Parlors.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
PLEASE tell me why there are over 700 so-called "beverage parlors" in St. Louis. Was there a law passed requiring them to remove swinging doors, partitions, etc.? Why isn't this law enforced?

Is it possible that our wonderful Police Department will pass these places day after day and never notice anything wrong?

Is it possible that the people of St. Louis drink enough lemon soda to support 700 of these places?

Philadelphia had a police scandal. The prohibition law had something to do with it. You don't suppose that St. Louis would have anything like that?

We have 10 Federal agents here. Is it any wonder that they are overworked?

J. B. CLARK.

Marking Street Intersections.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
ONE wonders why the engineers who laid out the new lighting system and ornamental poles were not farsighted enough to see the advantage of distinctly marking the street intersections to that they might be seen or anticipated from a distance by pedestrians as well as motorists.

While it is true that many if not all street corners in the residence section have four posts where new posts have been installed, yet this means little or nothing to anyone familiar with the location even a half a block away from the corner with the present arrangement of posts.

How easily this could have been arranged with some color scheme on the corner posts which would show not only at night time but in the day time as well. Then a motorist, or pedestrian looking down a street or boulevard could tell well in advance of any and all crossings. As it is now traffic is slowed up by any motorist not familiar with the street he is riding on.

Prefers Orchestra to Single Violin.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
R. L. C. reply to my letter is not convincing from a musical standpoint. Mr. Kreidler is a great artist. No one denies it, but—

A symphony orchestra of 80 pieces can produce tonal effects and coloring and an infinite variety of harmony which is utterly impossible on the violin, no matter how great the artist may be.

Beethoven's Ninth Symphony or any great work for a symphony orchestra played by violin and piano would, indeed, bring a smile from Mr. Oberholzer or Mr. Sousa, and cause Beethoven to turn over in his grave.

The Sousa band can also produce tonal effects and variety of harmony which no single instrument can produce. I have attended many of Mr. Sousa's concerts and I have failed so far to hear the brasses "crash" or the trumpets "bray." Brayers and crashers are entirely absent in the Sousa ensemble.

I claim Mr. Kreidler's prices keep the common people away from his recitals.

JAMES H. HOWELL.

THE GOOD ROADS MANDATE.

In view of the opposition of both Gov. Baker and Governor-elect Caulfield to the calling of an extra session of the Legislature for the purpose of passing an enabling act to carry out the provisions of the road bond issue amendment, the Automobile Club and the other forces which supported the bond issue have abandoned the extra session proposal.

The plan for an extra session, for the sole purpose of passing an enabling act, was prompted by a desire to make the bond funds available for a program of construction work on the roads next year. The people of the State had voted the bond issue by a majority of 160,000 votes. St. Louis, Kansas City and other centers of population voted for it by large majorities, and there were majorities in more than half of the counties. The vote was proof of the will of the people to supply ample money for the completion of the larger road system. The view of those who wanted the extra session was that this mandate of the people should be carried out at the earliest possible moment, so that there would be no delay in road construction. Their idea was that an extra session, with only the enabling act to pass, could act quickly, whereas in the regular session, with a large amount of work to do of various kinds, the enabling act might be delayed.

The idea was excellent and the objective desirable, but the time is short before the opening of the regular session. The cost would be considerable, and Governor-elect Caulfield thought that the Legislature in the regular session could be induced to push through the enabling act early and thus practically accomplish the end desired to be attained through the special session. The Highway Commission agrees that if the enabling act is quickly disposed of the road building program can be started under the bond issue in the summer or early autumn.

The success of the plan to put through the enabling act will depend upon Governor-elect Caulfield and the leaders in the Legislature. If Mr. Caulfield will press the point of haste to pass the enabling act and will get the co-operation of the legislative leaders, the thing can be accomplished. We assume from the Governor-elect's own view that it can be done, and that he will do all in his power to have it done. It is highly important that it be done, so that the people can realize promptly the benefits of the bond issue that they have voted. What the people want is the extension of good roads and the completion of the whole system with the least possible delay. They are entitled to that. The Governor and Legislature should join hands in giving them what they want. Delay would mean both waste and disappointment.

IDEA FOR THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

The effigy of Pasteur, the great scientist, on a French postage stamp gives rise to the point that American postage stamps are all dedicated to statesmen. George Washington is honored by the 2-cent stamp, while others carry the image of Ben Franklin, Thomas Jefferson and even contemporaries like Harding and Wilson. Granted that statesmen are very important persons, why would it not be a good idea to take a leaf from the French and honor Americans who have contributed to the glory of their country in other fields?

We hereby nominate for the hall of postage-stamp fame Thomas Edison, Samuel F. B. Morse, Ralph Waldo Emerson, General Goethals, James McNeill Whistler, Edward MacDowell, Eli Whitney, John Burroughs, Luther Burbank, Orville and Wilbur Wright, Walt Whitman, Theobald Smith, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Edgar Allan Poe, Robert Fulton, Elias Howe, William James, Admiral Perry, Prof. R. UNCLE SAM AND NICARAGUA.

If the United States Government adopted the suggestions of Dr. W. W. Cumberland, who has just made for the State Department a survey of the economic and political situation in Nicaragua, that troubled country would become what Stanley Baldwin says England became under the Romans.

Dr. Cumberland dismisses with silence whatever claims may be made for the sovereignty of Nicaragua or the right of her people to govern themselves, and goes straight to the attractive picture of what the country might become with our help. His recommendations are made public by the State Department with the notation that they are only his own. Nevertheless, they probably approximate as closely as the future can be predicted what is to happen. That is, Nicaragua is in debt, she is torn by civil war, and she is in every respect much more primitive than a country of her natural wealth under the protection of so great an empire as our own should be.

Mr. Cumberland recommends that our bankers lend her $12,000,000 with which to pay off her obligations, develop her roads and railroads and make modern and sanitary her capital city of Managua. He would safeguard this loan not with our marines and warships alone, but with administrative co-operation having as its objective making judicious expenditure of the money and a plan for repaying it. For instance, he would have a majority of the stock of the Bank of Nicaragua sold to Americans and the bank made the fiscal agent of the state. The Collector-General and the Auditor-General, both Americans, would be nominated by the American Secretary of State and appointed by the Nicaraguan President. A high commission consisting of these two officials and the Finance Minister would frame the budget and veto legislation designed to reduce revenue. The new Nicaraguan National Guard would be developed to proper efficiency by loaning it American marine officers over a period of years.

It has been some days since these recommendations were made public. The State Department has said nothing. It has only waited to see if the people of the United States are going to mind. If we may judge by their disposition since our last invasion of Nicaragua, they are not going to mind. Whether this is to mean that what Dr. Cumberland suggests for Nicaragua is also what we have in the backs of our heads for all the Caribbean republics, it is too early to predict. Probably it is. The weakness of all the criticism directed at our latest operation in Nicaragua has been that it only duplicated the policy of Mr. Wilson in Haiti and Santo Domingo. So that what we are doing in the Caribbean is not the policy of a party. It is a steady development over 20 years through the administrations of both Democrats and Republicans.

If Nicaragua is in any respect peculiar she is made so by the canal route. Maybe we are to hear more of that canal route when Mr. Hoover becomes President. We may be sure that his imagination will have envisaged it in the course of his Latin-American trip. We can also be sure that as an engineer he is not insensible to its possibilities as a romantic achievement for his administration. The question we will have to decide is whether we wish, when all things are considered, to become as frankly imperialistic as Dr. Cumberland is.

THE PEACE TREATY AND THE LEAGUE.

It is not hard to foresee what will happen when the Kellogg-Briand treaty comes before the United States Senate. Some members of that body who recall that we would not enter the League of Nations will ask if it is consistent in us now to offer the world peace with only such guarantees as the League can provide.

The staunchest friend of the League, resenting the way in which it was shunted by the enemies of Mr. Wilson, could not have asked that its adversaries in the United States be some day embarrassed by it any more than this. The treaty outlawing war is our own, and we are asking the whole world to accept it. Yet there is in it not one single means of making it effective, and whatever chance there is that anyone may be scotched for violating it lies in the League of Nations. Europe is enjoying this situation. It awaits the opening of Congress even more expectantly than we do.

It will not, in the opinion of European onlookers, be possible for us to claim that the treaty to outlaw war means anything without indicating that it can be made to mean something by the League of Nations. Yet there is not a word about this from the Coolidge administration, nor does Senator Borah, the original advocate of the treaty outlawing war, mention it. He confines his observations to the apparent inconsistency between the treaty and the navy bill, hoping that it is not to be exaggerated to the disparagement of either. That to confirm the peace treaty will be, in effect, to put our fondest ambition up to the League of Nations, which he has fought from the outset, does not seem to occur to him.

Whether it is fair for us to maintain our political opposition to the League and stay out of it while depending upon it to make good our own boast of peace on earth and good will toward men is a question that may, before the debate in the Senate ends, disturb the dreams of all these oblique-eyed gentlemen. Indeed, our whole conduct as to the League, from the time it was instituted, has belied what everyone knows to be true of us. It is quite well known that we are for peace within the limits of our opportunities as an empire, and that with respect to both the League of Nations and the World Court there is nothing in our aloofness beyond our own domestic politics.

Europe thinks we have at last, after floundering about for 10 years, landed ourselves rather neatly in the League's net. If so, it was always inevitable.

IN SOCIALISTIC CALIFORNIA.

The water utility which supplies Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley, Richmond, Piedmont and Albany, comprising the populous region across the bay from San Francisco, will pass from private hands into public ownership next March 1. Its cost will be in excess of $34,000,000.

California is Mr. Hoover's home state. It is one of those dreadful communities which sometimes find it better to own their own public utilities than to leave them in the hands of exploiters. The Springfield (Mass.) Republican said after Mr. Hoover's New York speech charging the Democrats with proposing state socialism, that one party is as guilty on this score as the other, and the Republican was supporting Mr. Hoover.

Anyway, the debate being over, it was not Gov. Smith's state that first took over a public utility.

BLIND, AND A TRIFLE DUMB.

The halting progress of justice and moral sensibility in these United States, as indicated by the news:

1. Oil magnate acquitted of perjury in District of Columbia because his alleged perjury was given before less than a quorum of an oil investigating committee.

2. Probate Judge Campbell of Cambridge, Mass., rules that act of 120-pound wife in bombing 200-pound husband with cream puffs does not constitute cruelty and dismisses his divorce petition.

3. Judge, across the Charles River in Boston, awards man a divorce because his wife smoked a pipe.

4. Chicago waiter shoots patron in chest because patron complained about the soup.

5. School Board in New York upholds gymnasium instructor who flogged pupils with rubber hose.

It may be that an oil magnate is justified in changing his testimony provided he doesn't scandalize too many Senators, possibly a hurled cream puff does not constitute an indignity, probably a woman shouldn't smoke a pipe around the house, and we may be captious in objecting to the use of a rubber hose on school children; but we will uphold before the world the right of a restaurant patron to denounce the soup, particularly this clammy Friday dish in which a defunct crawfish floats around with his whiskers in the air.

"Knowest thou a man," asks Mrs. Helen Rowland, "that is gentle and generous and understandeth women?" No, Helen, we knoweth him not.

PROGRESS IN FLYING SAFETY.

A significant conclusion is to be drawn from the fact that while acrobatic flying and other dangerous forms of airmanship have increased vastly in intricacy within the past several years, yet the fatality rate among flyers of the Army and Navy air services has markedly decreased.

In 1921, for instance, the Army had a fatality for every 35,000 hours of flying. During this year, according to figures compiled by the Air Corps, there has been only one fatality to every 562,000 hours. The improvement is registered in the face of the advent of upside-down flying with which the Army is now experimenting.

The conclusion, of course, is that the improvement in design and construction of airplanes has made them vastly safer, so much so that a radical improvement is possible, even under adverse safety conditions. In the commercial field the increase in safety is even more marked because the commercial flyer generally does not attempt the acrobatics with which every service flyer must be thoroughly familiar.

If Mr. Hoover really went on his trip to avoid job-hunters, we expect to see other Presidents-elect, carrying less for travel, stand offshore in bathhouses through the interval between election and inauguration.

THE LATEST RAINBOW.

Col. Robert W. Stewart's Acquittal

Newspaper comment on the oil magnate's perjury trial where a not guilty verdict was returned on purely technical grounds.

NOT TRIED AT ALL.

From the Milwaukee Journal.

ANOTHER of the oil scandal cases has collapsed. "Collapsed" is a more precise word to use in referring to the failure of the case against Col. Robert W. Stewart on the charge of perjury than to say that he was found not guilty. Technically the jury passed on his case and returned the "Not guilty" verdict. But really he was not tried at all on the question of whether he gave testimony that he knew to be untrue in his answers to queries propounded to him before the Senate committee that was investigating his connection with the Continental Trading Co. deal. He was tried on the issues of whether there was a quorum of the Senate investigating committee present and whether its stenographic employees did their work correctly. By one of those twists so well known in the American administration of justice, the jury convicted the Senate committee and its employees, and let Mr. Stewart go free.

In its larger aspect, the case adds one more to the long roll of criminal prosecution failures. Dolney, Fall, Sinclair, now Stewart. And people will be saying, cynically again, about these cases that they are not good for us to have to think or say. But how can it be avoided? For all that was done in Washington, nobody has paid.

AN IRONIC COMMENT.

From the Arkansas Democrat.

THE more one sees of the Washington oil scandal the more one is impressed with the obvious unfairness of the newspapers and men like Senator Walsh in persecuting those fine upstanding persons whose names were dragged in the dirt by "publicity seekers." Will all old-fashioned folk who suspected there might have been "some crook" work going on, now please rise and offer humble apologies for judging those gentlemen so cruelly and unjustly?

WILDLY ABSURD.

From the New York Evening Post.

COL. ROBERT W. STEWART, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, stands acquitted of the charge of committing perjury before the Senate's Teapot Dome Committee.

What Stewart said before that committee is clearly known to the country, which has long ago made up its mind as to his code of personal and business honor. But his crass contradictions were apparently not the issue in the case. Under the strange instructions of the Judge, the jury had to decide only whether the Senate committee which heard them had at the time a "bodily quorum" present. Deciding, in the face of legislative experience the world over, that a quorum "by assent" was no quorum, the jurors pronounced Stewart not guilty and then warmly patted him on the back.

A PYRRHIC VICTORY.

From the Daily Oklahoman.

NOT verdict of the passing days constitutes more of a Pyrrhic victory than that of the Washington jury which acquitted Robert W. Stewart. The jury did not find Stewart innocent of the perjury; it did not even pass judgment on that issue. It simply found that he did not bear false witness in the presence of eight Senators.

If eight Senators had been present when

NO VINDICATION.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

THE acquittal of Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, adds still another miscarriage of justice to the long legal travesty that has followed the oil scandal. Stewart was tried on a charge of perjury. He had made two entirely different and contradictory statements to the Senate Committee investigating the Continental Trading Co. deal. He was tried on the issues of whether there was a quorum of the Senate investigating committee present and whether its stenographic employees did their work correctly. By one of those twists so well known in the American administration of justice, the jury convicted the Senate committee and its employees, and let Mr. Stewart go free.

In its larger aspect, the case adds one more to the long roll of criminal prosecution failures. Dolney, Fall, Sinclair, now Stewart. And people will be saying, cynically again, about these cases that they are not good for us to have to think or say. But how can it be avoided? For all that was done in Washington, nobody has paid.

A WEAK CASE.

From the New York Times.

NO one who had closely followed the trial of Col. Stewart at Washington for perjury could have expected his conviction. The evidence against him presented by the Government was pretty weak from the beginning and was a good deal broken down by the defense. The actual acquittal appears to have been based on a ruling by the Judge that the jury must find Col. Stewart not guilty if they were convinced that the Senate Committee before which he testified did not have an actual quorum physically present. Even without this technical point in his favor, it is highly doubtful if Col. Stewart could have been, or should have been, convicted of perjury.

WHAT NORRIS THINKS.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

ROBERT W. STEWART is not guilty of perjury because the lie he is alleged to have told under oath was not told in the presence of eight Senators. So the trial Judge has ruled, and in accordance with that ruling the jury has brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Perhaps the best comment on the trial is that of Senator Norris: Under the instructions given the jury it could have rendered no other verdict. I think the Judge's interpretation of the law is wrong. If it is right, 95 per cent of all state and national legislation would be nullified. All the Legislature in the civilized world operate without physical quorums. Unless there was a fight on the Judge himself, he probably was not confirmed by a quorum and, therefore, under his interpretation, he is not a Judge. Such decisions have made the civilized world laughing stock of the civilized world.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.

SECRETARY OF STATE KELLOGG has taken a long-term lease on an estate at Santa Barbara, Cal., and expects to go there after March 4 for a season of intensive golf. The Secretary is nearly 73 years old, but he regularly goes around the Chevy Chase and Burning Tree courses in the eighties.

He recently went out to play with a State Department official who knew little about the amenities of the game. This man had some business to transact with the Secretary and he started to talk about it just as Mr. Kellogg took his stance on the edge of the green, for a 50-foot putt. Happily, a third player, who knew both the game and the Secretary, was present. "My God, man," he cried, "don't speak to him now." Mr. Kellogg wiggled his club in his habitually nervous manner, tapped the ball and sent it into the cup. "Now," breathed the third man, gently, "now is the time."

SOMEONE has coined the phrase that in the matter of the next Cabinet, the mind of the President-elect is "as open as a Kansas prairie."

GEORGE E. CHRISTIAN JR., who was secretary to President Harding, is back in Washington as assistant to J. C. Jenkins, a vice president of the Government's Merchant Fleet Corporation. Two other presidential secretaries have found the lure of the Capital too strong to be resisted. Joseph P. Tumulty, who was with President Wilson through both his terms, is practicing law here, and C. Bascom Siemp, who was President Coolidge's secretary for a year and a half, makes this city the base of his political, legal and coal-mining operations.

SCHUBERT'S INFERIORITY COMPLEX.

From the Springfield Republican.

WE have had to wait for the century of Schubert's death to learn that his genius was only an inferiority complex. The celebration in Vienna was slightly marred Tuesday by the statement of a learned professor that Schubert was "a self-satisfied humdrum individual, a harmless schoolmaster conscious of the inferiority that his music became left." From the stupendous quantity of work which he did, however, in the short adult time of his 31 years, we may doubt whether he had much leisure to indulge an inferiority complex.

CAR FARES IN BALTIMORE.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

IT seems to be only a matter of a few days now when the 10-cent car fare will be with us. And so it goes. The public has seen the fare rate grow from 5 cents to 6 cents, to 7 1/2 cents, to 8 1/2 cents, to 9 cents, to 10 cents, to 11 cents, to 12 cents, to 13 cents, to 14 cents, to 15 cents, to 16 cents, ELEVATED LINES FAVORED BY CITY'S TRANSIT ENGINEER subway or elevated lines. The experience of Boston is an argument in support of this point, he says. An elevated or subway car can be run, he figures, at an operating cost of 23 cents a mile, whereas a surface car costs 37 cents a mile. The balance of 14 cents goes to paying for elevated or subway building. In the dull period of the day, cars can be dropped from trains without decreasing the frequency of service.

Benefits to property in rapid transit construction, Kelker believes, can be more nearly equalized than was done in the building of the original New York subway. There, the chief benefits were to the property near the stations, several blocks apart.

Downtown subway stations, he said, can be built so that they are accessible from several points, with platforms extending for a block or more. Elevated stations can also be made accessible from surrounding buildings.

Question of Assessment.
 The question of assessing benefits against downtown property holdings is now before the St. Louis Transportation Commission. In connection with the existing law which it will ask of the next Missouri Legislature. The proposed law, as tentatively approved by the commission, states that the cost of subways, "in whole or in part," may be assessed against the property benefits. This was beaten at the last session of the Legislature through the objections of the late Paul Brown and other property owners.

Valuation processes are regarded by Kelker as time-killing proceedings which get nowhere. "The main thing to be sure about in buying any property," he said, "are the validity of the title and the earning capacity. It isn't necessary to go around counting kegs of bolts and coils of wire, and then adding 20 per cent for overhead."

Traffic counts may also be overvalued, he thinks, in determining routes which must serve in a changeable future. However, he expects to use the data supplied by Reuben Hoffman, traffic engineer of the Street Department. Kelker considers that the traffic problem is well handled in St. Louis.

The skip-stop system should be extended on the St. Louis line, Kelker believes. Where the system cannot be used for the whole day, it should be used in rush hours, he says. For shoppers and Sunday churchgoers, more frequent stops may be necessary than for rush-hour crowds, he thinks.

The question of decentralization, in connection with rapid transit, was mentioned to Kelker. Members of the Transportation Commission have said that they were opposed to decentralization, in relation to the St. Louis downtown area.

"Decentralization is a tendency that nobody and nothing can stop," Kelker said. "It is shown in Chicago by the growth of the Wilson avenue and Hyde Park centers, and in St. Louis by the Grand-Olive and Delmar-Kingshighway districts. But rapid transit can retard decentralization, and it is the only thing that can retard it."

The Man and His Work.
 The Chicago engineer, selected by unanimous vote of the commission as adviser and virtual director of the St. Louis undertaking, is small and alert, with keen features and gray hair. He is 55 years old, and has made surveys and reports on the transit needs of Los Angeles, Baltimore and other cities, besides his work with the Chicago City Council. As a matter of professional information he has studied the same problems in other cities where he has not been employed. He served overseas in the war as a Captain of Engineers in the Eighty-sixth Division.

Kelker will be in St. Louis probably Friday to confer with the Transportation Commission. Engagements with the Chicago Commissioners, and the Thanksgiving holiday, will keep him from coming sooner. As was told at the time of his selection, Kelker will receive $100 a day for the time spent on the trip here, and his associates in the firm of Kelker & De Leuw, with St. Louis assistants, will receive a lower daily pay. Kelker has estimated that a year's work will cost the city $20,000, and that the work needed from him and his associates to cover a year and a half or more, will cost $30,000 or $35,000.

Socialists precipitated a crisis last week over a single cruiser. It appears that it is in Russia and the United States, that the greatest armament increases are evident. Soviet expenditures show steady increase since 1924 until the figures will have doubled for the coming year. As in other countries this increase is real, since the price and living indices have increased only 5 per cent for the same period.

Washington's expenditures, according to statistics officially given out by the League, were $58,000,000 in 1925 to 1926, as against President Coolidge's announcement of $58,000,000 for the 1926-27 period.

Since Mussolini assumed the dictatorship over Italy, the Fascists have strengthened the military power. Since the stabilization of the lira last year armaments have increased from $4,350,000 to $6,200,000 lire for 1928.

Looking at it from all tangible angles it seems that the nations of the world are following the identical path of pre-war days, evidently believing that preparedness for war is the greatest guarantee for peace.

Only 1 1/3 Cents of Your 8-Cent Carfare Goes to the Owners of This Company

NEARLY 4 cents—half of each token—is paid out in wages—money that is kept in circulation among St. Louis merchants.

In accordance with its promise to keep car riders fully informed at all times, the St. Louis Public Service Company presents its operating statement for the four months during which the 8 cent carfare has been collected.

It will be noted that in four months ending Nov. 1, the 8-cent fare failed by $453,422 to produce for the owners the $1,554,165 to which the Missouri Public Service Commission has declared they are entitled for that period as a fair return on the value of the property in service of the public.

Operating Receipts

Fares Collected $6,378,781

The above includes all fares collected on the Street Cars and on the Buses operated by the St. Louis Public Service Co. as a co-ordinated service. The same fare is collected on Buses as on Street Cars and free transfers are issued from one to the other. Revenue passengers (excludes transfer passengers) carried during the four months, July, August, September and October 1928, were 81,255,666 of which there were 2,196,867 children paying a fare of 3c.

Miscellaneous Receipts $ 92,056

This includes receipts from miscellaneous sources such as advertising, special car and bus service, etc.

Total for 4 Months $6,470,837

Operating Expenses

Wages $3,049,664

About one-half (1/2) of each fare collected is paid out in wages. In addition to the sum shown, the Company paid $101,923 to men engaged in Construction Work, etc., making a total of wages paid to St. Louisans during this period, of $3,241,587 practically all of which is kept circulating in St. Louis.

Other Operating Expenses $1,292,035

Material and supplies bought from 500 concerns in St. Louis, 1 power purchased, insurance and depreciation (property used in transportation is subject to continual wear and tear and must be renewed and replaced). The amount which the Public Service Commission of Mo. has directed the company to set up for depreciation is $266,667 for each 4 months period. (*)

Taxes $ 613,791

The Company is required to collect from the riders, as a part of the fares paid, and turn over to the State and Municipal Government taxes on the property used in supplying transportation. Also to collect from its riders other taxes for the privilege of riding on a street car.

Personal Injuries and Property Damages $ 414,604

This cost is paid by the car rider through their fares. Modern traffic conditions produce accidents, for the great majority of which our operators are not to blame. Feeling sure of the car riders' approval of such action, the Company makes prompt and fair settlement of all just claims, but is forced to pay out large sums in excessive verdicts and for unjust claims. Cooperation of the car rider in bringing about a realization in the public mind of this unjust expense borne by him will lighten his burden.

Total for 4 Months $5,370,094

Balance Available for Use of Property $1,100,743

This means that during four (4) months period, the Company received as rental (technically called return) for use of its property used in transportation, approximately 1-1/3 cts. out of each car fare paid. From this amount the company must pay all interest charges, and meet sinking fund requirements on funded debt.

Minimum Amount Company is entitled to receive for use of its property as fixed by the Public Service Commission $1,554,165

Balance available for such purpose [see above] $1,100,743

Deficit $ 453,422

Amount by which Company failed to earn Minimum Return for the four-month period.

* Figures shown above under head of "Other Operating Expense" include amount of $266,667 allowed by the Public Service Commission for Depreciation. This is not an adequate amount to conserve the property. Accordingly the Company sets up on its books Depreciation on the annual basis of 3% of Depreciable property. This amount for the 4 month period was $455,640, leaving amount available for return to Company, in reality $911,770, or 1-1/8c out of each car fare.

 Commission's order provides for a 4-month minimum return of $1,511,802 on property value of $63,500,000, as of Jan. 1, 1927. Additions and Betterments since Jan. 1, 1927, amount to $1,779,974 on which the minimum return for the 4-month period would amount to $42,365.

Christmas would be incomplete without the many personal gifts which are cherished chiefly for the friendships they represent—gifts that swell the heart with kindly thoughts of others. But why not add a practical touch by one gift of lasting joy—the Maytag.

Enjoy the Maytag's cast-aluminum tub and gyrofoam action—the faster, cleaner, gentler method of washing. Enjoy its Roller Water Remover—the advanced method of wringing; enjoy the quiet, smooth performance of its precision-cut steel gears. Week after week, year after year, the Maytag will continue to bring good cheer.

The Maytag won its position of world leadership, not only by originating new and advanced ideas of design and construction, but by creating perfection in every minute detail. $35,000,000 EACH YEAR URGED FOR FLOOD CONTROL the present fiscal year.

"Perhaps the most significant development of the waterways year was the passage by Congress of the Denison act authorizing the appropriation of $10,000,000 for new equipment for the large line of the Federal Government," he declared. "The most far-reaching provision is one relating to through joint rates and divisions with the railroads. This is essential if the benefits of cheaper water transportation are to be brought to the interior districts of the country. We desire and seek co-operation with the railroads, and we sincerely hope that the railroads will co-operate with us in establishing the equitable rates we desire, with equitable division of accruing revenues, particularly such routes and rates as will move our agricultural exportable surplus promptly and cheaply."

"We have no desire to enter into litigation with the railroads, expensive to both sides, to procure for water transportation the opportunity to thrive and extend its benefits to the people who have been taxed to create these arteries of cheap transportation. We hope that the railroads will meet with us in a co-operative spirit to work out an equitable arrangement whereby both rail and water transportation may prosper, but if such co-operation can only be secured by order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, after litigation, we are prepared to litigate until the end is secured. The recent decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission completely upholds the position of the War Department and will greatly expedite the ultimate solution of the problem."

"1928 a Red Letter Year."

"The waterway system will provide a main East and West line extending from the Pittsburgh district to Kansas City and beyond, and North and South lines from St. Paul and Chicago to the Gulf."

Another important development of 1928 which the Secretary commented on was the increased success of the operations of the large line.

"To sum it up briefly," he said, "the corporation's accounts show a largely increased tonnage, or a lower net revenue per ton, a much lower operating expense per ton, with an increased net income per ton. A comparison with the years before the corporation was formed is illuminating. Up to 1924, the average net loss annually was $759,861.68. In 1920 it was $1,000,000. This year, taking into consideration only the same rivers then in operation, the net operating income for nine months only was $442,224.22 after charging off nearly $300,000 for depreciation. Converting a net annual loss of over $750,000 into a net income for nine months of nearly $450,000 despite the many difficulties incident to the governmental operation is a record of which the large line officials may well be proud."

"A comparison with last year's result for nine months (excluding the Upper Mississippi Division, which was only in partial operation last year), is also of interest. For the nine months in 1927, the net income was $32,342.76. For 1928, it was $475,572.25, or a gain of well over 500 per cent. Am I not justified in calling 1928 a red letter year?"

"Just a few more figures to give you the latest information of the results for the first nine months of 1928 by divisions. The lower Mississippi, net income $540,832.15. Upper Mississippi, net loss $197,749.85. Warrior River, net loss $1,000,000. The North and South River Terminal Co. combined, net loss $67,310.30.

Plans to Help Farmers.

The large line has been carrying the exportable surplus of grain, particularly wheat. Secretary Davis said that plans are being studied by which the large line may become of even more value to the farmer by bringing the benefits of cheaper transportation into the domestic situation. The Northwest produces annually a surplus of oats and there is a large surplus production of corn in Southern Minnesota and South Dakota. The South needs oats and corn for its animal food and if proper facilities for a combined rail-water-rail haul existed, the farmers of both districts would be benefited, he said.

Newton declared that his proposal for revision of the Upper Mississippi and Missouri river projects would insure a nine-foot channel from Chicago and the Great Lakes down the Illinois River to the Gulf of Mexico and from Minneapolis, St. Paul and Kansas City to New Orleans, connecting at New Orleans with the Inter-coastal Canal to Houston, Galveston and Corpus Christi.

"A most important unit of this inland waterway system not heretofore provided is a nine-foot channel on the Tennessee River from Paducah to Chattanooga and Knoxville, a distance of 448 miles," Newton declared. "This would open a new territory with tremendously heavy tonnage, and it is important that this association exert its efforts to bring about the adoption of this project."

Would Tap Kentucky Coal Fields. "It is also of utmost importance that a nine-foot project should be adopted on the Cumberland River extending into the coal fields of Kentucky. In order to complete this great inland system it is necessary that other meritorious laterals with nine-foot channels be adopted."

Newton said that three years ago, after repeated urging from the Mississippi Valley Association, Congress and the administration at Washington agreed upon a five-year program with an annual appropriation of $50,000,000. Such an appropriation would have been adequate to complete the river and harbor projects theretofore adopted within five years, but soon thereafter additional projects, amounting to approximately $40,000,000, were added, thus rendering the $50,000,000 appropriation per annum inadequate.

"It will be necessary in the future," he said, "to adopt additional projects in order to properly complete the great inland waterway system which we have undertaken. And, when these projects are adopted, $50,000,000 will be entirely inadequate to carry the program to completion within any reasonable time."

"Flood control legislation authorizes the expenditure of large sums of money, but this money cannot be expended until it has been appropriated by Congress, and it is a part of the duty of this association to exert its utmost effort to procure an appropriation for flood control improvement during the next fiscal year of a sum of at least $35,000,000. Unless a sum of substantially this amount is appropriated each fiscal year, this improvement cannot be completed in a period of 10 years as contemplated."

Hoover a "White Hope." "The association one year ago endorsed adequate flood control legislation, with a provision requiring the government to bear the entire cost of the improvement. Along with members of Congress friendly to waterways, our association gave its support to the Jones and Reid bill, which is now a law and which goes a long way toward solving the Mississippi Valley's flood problems."

Congressman Hull of Illinois described President-elect Hoover as the "white hope of the inland waterways," and asked the association not to insist on appropriations that would embarrass the next President. "We must work with the present and next Congress to obtain appropriations large enough to complete the projects contemplated by the government engineers," he said.

The sessions of the two-day convention are scheduled for 9:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. Tomorrow afternoon will be devoted to open discussion by the various delegates, followed by an election. The new Board of Directors will meet tomorrow evening.

RENEW DEMAND FOR MISSOURI TO USE BUDGET PLAN

the trading of votes is over, the result is that there is no equitable distribution of the funds.

While the system has been wasteful and the State payrolls contain employees far in excess of a reasonable number for the work to be done, there has been a niggardly policy in the matter of salaries. The highest paid employee of the State is the president of the university, who receives a salary of $12,500 a year. The next highest salary is paid Judges of the Supreme Court and the Highway Engineer, who get $7500 a year each. A few deans at the university receive as high as $7200, but some of them get as low as $4500. The Governor is paid a salary of only $5000, but gets some special fees which give him an income of about $6500. State officers, with salaries and fees, get about $4500, except the Superintendent of Public Instruction, who gets two salaries aggregating $5000. Members of the Public Service Commission are paid $5500 each and heads of departments range from $3500 to $5000. Clerks' salaries range from $1500 to $2500.

Notwithstanding a recognition of the fact that State salaries in most instances are woefully inadequate in comparison with salaries paid in private business, there is no plan to raise them at the next Legislature. The attempt will be made to put the State's finances on a business basis, leaving for correction at some future time the inequities existing in salaries.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MEEKER, 97-YEAR-OLD OREGON TRAIL BLAZER, IS ILL
"Quite Ready to Go," He Says,
But Doctors Have Little Hope for Recovery.

Associated Press, Nov. 26.—
SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 26.—
John Meeker, oldest pioneer of the Pacific Northwest, is seriously ill in a hotel here. It was the second, and physicians feared probably the last, illness of the 97-year-old man. His condition was too serious to permit his being moved to a hospital.

For two months last summer, the white haired trail blazer was ill in the Ford Hospital at Detroit. That illness, physicians said, hastened his general weakness.

To one of his three daughters who are in constant attendance upon him, Meeker whispered today:

"I have lots of unfinished work.
I'm not quite ready to go."

Meeker came to Puget Sound from Indiana when Seattle was a settlement of twenty log cabins. In 1906, fifty-four years after the start of his westward journey, Me-ker, with an ox team and covered wagon returned over the old Oregon trail, marking it with monuments.

He was received by President Roosevelt. He made a second trip in 1910 and recently recrossed the route by airplane.

THANKSGIVING DAY CALLED TURKEY DAY

The Great American Bird Is Sacred to This Great American Feast.

Thanksgiving day, occurring this week, assumes first importance in the planning of the weekly meals. In many families it is a day of reunion, and work should be planned ahead in order to avoid confusion or unnecessary crowding in preparation of the all-important feast. In the menu, as I have planned it for this day, traditional dishes have been kept in mind, but the meal simplified so far as is consistent with the day.

Turkey forms the main part of the meal. Select one according to the number of people to be served, but remember that a turkey less than nine pounds in weight is seldom a good buy, as there is too much bone in proportion to the amount of flesh. A 10 or 12 pound turkey is an average size and gives the best flavor. Hen turkeys are considered the most desirable. Wash the turkey inside and out, removing any pin feathers first. Stuff with a sausage stuffing made by mixing together four cups of soft stale bread crumbs, one teaspoon of salt, one-half pound sausage meat, grated rind and juice of one lemon, one tablespoon chopped parsley and about one-third cup of boiling water.

Mix all of the ingredients except the water together with your hands, as it is difficult to work the sausage and bread crumbs together with a spoon. Stuff the turkey with the mixture, truss and tie the wings around with a clean string to hold them close to the body. Place the turkey on its back in a large roasting pan and spread all over with a mixture of one-third cup of melted fat and one-third cup of flour. It is best to cook a turkey in a covered roaster, because it needs less attention and because there is less likelihood of the meat becoming too dry.

Allow 25 minutes for a pound, and cook for the first half hour in a very hot oven. Then reduce the heat to 250 degrees and finish cooking. The turkey liver, gizzard and heart should be washed, covered with boiling water and cooked very slowly for an hour with a sliced onion and a stalk of celery. These are then chopped and used, together with the liquid in which they are cooked, for making a giblet gravy.

Cranberry jelly or sauce may be mixed early in the week, covered with wax paper and kept in the icebox until ready to use.

PUMPKIN PIE ACCEPTED

THANKSGIVING DESSERT
Cranberry Pie and Ice Cream Also Suitable for Holiday Dinner.

Pumpkin pies may be made the day before and reheated for serving. The filling for the pumpkin pie can be very conveniently made by using the canned pumpkin; if the fresh is preferred, peel the pumpkin, cut in small pieces and steam or bake until very tender. Then rub through a strainer. For two medium-sized pies, mix two cups of strained pumpkin with one and one-half cups of brown sugar, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of ground ginger, one and one-half teaspoons of cinnamon, and one-fourth teaspoon of nutmeg. Beat four eggs until light, add two cups of milk and one cup of thin cream or undiluted evaporated milk. Stir into the pumpkin mixture, and mix until thoroughly blended.

Crisp-cross cranberry pie is the type that tradition sets aside as a proper dessert for a holiday dinner.

Crisp-Cross Cranberry Pie.
Line a pie pan with rich pie crust. Chop four cups of cranberries and add two cups sugar, two tablespoons flour, three tablespoons water, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one tablespoon melted butter. Fill the pastry shell with this mixture. Place strips of pie crust over the top of pie in lattice or crisp-cross form. Bake pie in moderate oven and serve warm.

BUFFET SUPPER FOR THANKSGIVING NIGHT

Guests Enjoy a Secondary Meal on Day of Our Great Feast.

The hostess who is planning Thanksgiving supper will probably find a buffet service best suited to the informal character of the meal. Generally speaking, people are so surfeited with food on this day that it is well to plan some light, especially appetizing and attractive dishes, else you may find that your guests lack appreciation of your efforts!

In the buffet style of service, cold foods or those that can be kept hot over hot water or in a chafing dish will prove most acceptable. Platters of cold food, attractively arranged, may be set on either side of the table so that the guests may serve themselves. Platters of plates should be placed near each platter; napkins arranged conveniently, and forks and other necessary pieces of silver placed on the table near the plates or the dishes with which they are to be used.

A good menu for a very simple meal is the one we have used in this week's menu for Thanksgiving supper. It consists of a salad made of hard-boiled eggs stuffed with crab flakes; thin bread and butter sandwiches; fig layer cake and cider. It may be made more elaborate by adding a hot dish such as shrimp a la king, stuffed mushrooms, or a sardine rabbit—all of these may be kept hot in the electric chafing dish or over a pan of hot water. Instead of the layer cake, a frozen dessert and plain sponge cake may be used with hot coffee added as a beverage.

The bread and butter sandwiches should be made from bread from which the crust has been removed; either white or whole wheat or one slice of each may be used. Work the butter until very soft adding a little very thick cream to it—on a tablespoon to a quarter of a pound of butter is plenty. Spread the bread evenly with the creamed butter, and press the slices firmly together.

Cut in dainty, fancy shapes and wrap in wax paper or a damp napkin until ready to serve.

OTHER MEATS FOR HOLIDAY DINNERS

A Fresh Ham, a Capon or a Duck Makes a Festive Main Dish.

When families are small or when the price of the festive turkey soars beyond the reach of the family pocketbook, keep in mind the fact that there are several excellent meats that can be used to make an equally gala meal, and resolve to make the best of them. A fresh ham that is baked in cider makes, to my of thinking, a piece de resistance.

Roast capon with chestnut stuffing is not to be frowned upon, and roast duck with a brown orange sauce offers a choice that is worthy of any occasion.

Should you decide to use a capon it may be cooked in the same way as the chicken. Capons are larger and heavier than chickens, and usually have a little richer flavor. They cost a few cents more per pound than chicken, but at that are considerably less expensive than turkey. An average size capon weighs about seven pounds. Either domestic or wild duck may be roasted and served with the orange sauce. Wild ducks are cooked very rare, and are never stuffed. Seldom any part of the bird is eaten except the breast and legs. Domestic duck has more flesh and more fat than the wild duck. They are always well cooked and may be stuffed if desired. An apple or celery stuffing gives excellent flavor.

For the brown orange sauce which makes this a holiday dish, make the usual brown gravy and add to it the grated rind of one orange and one-half cup of orange juice. A few slices of sautéed orange may be used to garnish the dish. For these, peel whole firm oranges, removing every bit of the white skin, cut crosswise in slices one-third inch thick and cook in a little butter until heated through.

Honey Pineapple Sauce.
Cream out-third cupful butter with one cupful warm mild honey. When well mixed add two cupfuls drained shredded pineapple.

DR. LUMMIS, HISTORIAN OF SOUTHWEST, DIES

Explorer and Poet, Defender of Indians, Succumbs in Los Angeles.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 26.—Dr. Charles Fletcher Lummis, 69 years old, author, explorer and historian, died at his home here yesterday of cancer.

Last February physicians informed Dr. Lummis that he would not live more than a year. With the knowledge that his days were numbered, Dr. Lummis worked at top speed to compile his life's works and publish them before he died. This task was completed Oct. 28, after which his strength slowly ebbed. He was in a coma for several days and died peacefully.

Dr. Lummis also was a poet and only recently completed his latest volume, "Bronco Pegasus."

Exploring in South America.
In the course of his career, Dr. Lummis served as city editor of the Los Angeles Times and public librarian of Los Angeles and was one of the founders of the Southwest Museum. His books on the history of Spanish America have been widely read here and abroad. He explored the wilds of Peru and Bolivia, returning to Los Angeles in 1894. In 1912 he was blind for a time after contracting fever in Guatemala.

More than 40 years ago Dr. Lummis quit his job on an Ohio newspaper, slung a pack over his shoulders and set out to walk the country that lay westward to the Pacific Coast. That journey finally caused him to leave the field of journalism and eventually placed him among the noted archeologists of the continent.

Born in Lynn, Mass., March 1, 1859, Lummis spent his boyhood in the East. He was graduated from Harvard in 1881. Three years later he started for Southern California.

Lummis was city editor of the Times for three years. Then in 1887 he struck out on horseback for New Mexico. For five years he studied the lives and customs of the Indians while he lived in their Pueblo homes. Later, after spending years in exploration in the Southwest and Latin America, he returned to writing and for 15 years published an outdoor magazine.

Supporter of Indians.
His exploration into the Indian territories made him a staunch supporter on their rights and he founded numerous leagues and clubs to defend them and protect their historic landmarks. Noteworthy also were his protracted battles to preserve the rambling old Spanish missions along the Southern California coast.

His research into Spanish and Indian life resulted in many writings and he amassed a huge collection of relics of both races which were later the foundation for the Southwest Museum. It was such exploits as these that caused Spain to bestow honorary membership in the Order of Isabella upon him in 1915 and he was knighted by the Spanish monarch for his accomplishments.

He was thrice married and the father of three children, one of whom was reared in an Indian pueblo of New Mexico, while the father studied the lives of the people of the village.

MRS. OLDFIELD TO BE ELECTED TO CONGRESS THIS WEEK
Arkansas Governor to Call Special Election; Will Be State's First Woman in House.

By the Associated Press.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 26.—Arkansas will elect its first congresswoman—Mrs. Fannie P. Oldfield—this week to serve out the unexpired term of her husband, Congressman William A. Oldfield, Democratic whip of the House, who died at Washington a week ago.

Gov. Parnell, following a meeting with a special committee from the Second Congressional District yesterday, indicated he would call a special election early in the week in which the Representative's widow will be unopposed to serve out the short term which ends in March. The special election will be a formality. It was announced, as prospective candidates for the two year term for which Mr. Oldfield was elected recently favor Mrs. Oldfield to serve out her husband's unexpired term.

FINE FOR CHILDREN!

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath, and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. Recognized by their olive color, Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those irritable spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in active healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 10c, 30c and 60c sizes.

ARMY-STANFORD CONTEST WILL BE REAL BATTLE, WARNER PREDICTS

UNDERDOGS HAD FIELD DAY IN GAMES PLAYED LAST SATURDAY

By Glenn S. Warner

Football Coach, Stanford University

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 26.—There is an old saying that every dog has his day, and if this be true, last Saturday most certainly was the underdog's day. That the favorites were toppled right and left is evident by the surprising victories of Harvard, Navy, Michigan, New York University and Minnesota, although in the case of the latter two the reversals of form were not so startling. The number of teams throughout the country that have never been beaten nor tied, is very low.

In the East, since the defeat of Carnegie, Boston College remains with an unblemished record. The schedule of the Bostonians is scarcely of major caliber and it would be unfair to the strong teams of the East to claim that Boston College was the leading aggregation of the Atlantic seaboard.

In the South, the Georgia Tech. Tennessee and Florida have clean records. The fact that there are so few unbeaten teams is a great tribute to the development of modern football. There has been such a great improvement in coaching methods and in the development of high-class material that it requires almost a miracle for a team, playing five or six major games to escape without a defeat or two, or at best a tie.

History Repeats Itself.

The Stanford-California battle was a splendid struggle. In this game, history again repeated itself for, in 1924, in that memorable 29-20 tie game, the Cardinals pulled the game out of the fire by a long forward pass in the last few minutes of play. This same thing happened Saturday when a long pass from Simkins to Brent was caught by the Stanford line and Stanford tied the score with a minute left to play. This game demonstrated not only that the forward pass is a formidable weapon of attack but that it may also serve as a boomerang, because, it was an intercepted pass and a run of 76 yards which produced California's first touchdown. The Stanford team did very well to come back and tie the game after trailing by 12 points at the end of the first half.

In the other Pacific Coast contest, Southern California defeated Idaho, although the Vandals gave the Trojans much stiffer opposition than was anticipated. The University of Oregon team, which has come into its own during the month of November, achieved a easy victory over Montana.

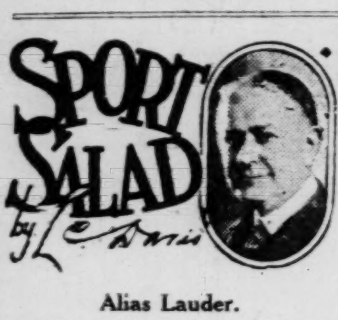

I was not at all surprised at the outcome of the Army-Nebraska encounter. I knew that the Nebraska team was formidable, but from reliable information I had been led to believe that the Cornhuskers were a very superior organization and that the Cornhuskers would not be quite good enough to take their measure. The Cadets and Stanford appeared to be quite evenly matched. Both teams had hard games last Saturday. The Cardinal team will have the long trip across the continent and it is difficult to predict what effect this will have on the physical condition of the boys. The game should be a fine exhibition of football, and I feel sure that the Stanford team will give a good account of itself.

Harvard rose to great heights in administering its crushing defeat to Yale. The Crimson team has made more effective use of lateral passing than any of the major institutions, the passing of French and Guarnaccia being the main factor in the Harvard victory. The Navy-Princeton upset was marked by the reversal to form of Whitley Lloyd, star back of the Midshipmen in 1926 and 1927. This player staged a sterling comeback and almost single handedly defeated the Tigers. Inasmuch as the Princeton team was pointed for the Yale game of the previous week, they may have suffered a slight letdown for the Navy contest.

In overwhelming the powerful Carnegie eleven, New York University team overcame a double final. This is the first game that New York has won away from home since Chick Meahan has been coaching there. Furthermore, it is a fact that Meahan coached teams have never been at their best in their battles in Pittsburgh. The Tartan crew was unable to stop Strong, one of the very best bats in the East. On the losing team, Harpster, captain, stood out in bright relief.

Illinois Retains Title.

After much scrambling of the hope, featured by many upsets, Illinois, last year's champion, and the pre-season favorite to succeed there, finally succeeded in finishing at the top of the Big Ten. The victory over Ohio State clinched the title for them and prevented Coach Jack Wilson from closing his Alias Lauder.

THE name of Gene Tunney, the sister, is not in the Social Register. But as plain Mr. Lauder, Than whom none is prouder, He knocked the "400" a-twister.

Three cheers and a tiger for Tunney! His stuff is exceedingly funny; This slinger of licks plays with Princes and Dukes And never lands out of the money.

Quite So.

The death of Thomas Fortune Ryan leaving an estate valued at $300,000,000 seems to definitely answer that time-honored question of what's in a name?

The Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Hockey League announce the purchase of Mickey "Himself" Maguire, late of the Toonerville Trolley League.

There are 10,000 applicants for prohibition enforcement jobs under Hoover. These are only scattering returns. The real dry strongholds haven't come in as yet.

A man doesn't necessarily have to be dry to be an enforcement officer. In fact it is his own fault if he is.

We are now convinced that it isn't the team that makes the manager. It's Sam Bredon.

Sam, imbued with that old automobile spirit, is sold on the idea of putting out a new model every year.

And based on results it can't be denied that Samuel has turned out some pretty good jobs.

His idea is keep on until he has merged the best features of all into one. When better managers are made, Sam'll make 'em.

Waite Hort figures the American League race will be a three-cornered affair next year with Detroit as the new member of the triumvirate. Indicating that Waite has forgotten about the Browns, who won more games from the Yanks than any of the others.

See where Pund who plays center on Georgia Tech weighs around 260 pounds or pounds as the case may be.

"Pollwogs to Play Baptists."

"Won't you come into our water?"

Said the Baptists to the Frogs. "No, we really can't be bothered. But we'll send some Pollwogs."

See where the A. A. U. is again after the boys who pick up a little piece of change playing baseball in the good old summer time. Some of these days the old A. A. U. is going to get a dislocated spine bending the crab that way.

ILLINOIS GRID PLAYERS TO GET LETTERS TONIGHT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 26.—This was another big day in the life of Coach Robert Zuppke, and his Illinois football team.

Champions of the Big Ten for the second straight year, they were feted by Chicago and Urbana, the faculty and student body.

A big student convocation was planned for today to praise the Illinois warriors. Tonight the annual football banquet, during which letters were to be awarded and a captain for 1929 chosen, was to be held.

In his 16 years of coaching, Zuppke has piloted Illinois teams to seven championships, five of which were held single handed and two shared with another team.

Play Scoreless Tie

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 26.—The Caruthersville professional football team and the New Madrid pros played a scoreless tie at the local fairgrounds here, yesterday. Gene Sexton, former star fullback of Westminster College, played fullback for Caruthersville.

coaching career with a victory over his old schoolmate, Bob Zuppke. The Minnesota team cashed in on its latent power and in so doing destroyed the championship aspirations of Wisconsin. Michigan showed the true Wolverine spirit because after spotting the strong Iowa team to a seven-point lead in the first quarter, they came back strong in the second half and won the contest, thus eliminating Iowa from the championship fight.

Purdue defeated the University of Indiana and the old oaken bucket, the symbol of victory in this struggle, remains with the Boilermakers.

LINTZENICH IS READY TO START AGAINST BEARS

Three light workouts today, tomorrow and Wednesday will conclude the preparation of the St. Louis University Billikens for the Thanksgiving day game with Washington U.—a game they haven't won for 11 years.

Hearty Anderson will devote the remaining practices to polishing the Billikens' passing offense in which it is believed St. Louis' best chances of victory lie. Anderson was well satisfied with the showing of the varsity men in Saturday's game with the freshmen and their execution of the aerial plays. St. Louis will have an important asset this year that it didn't have last Thanksgiving with Joe Lintzenich in good condition to play the entire game. With Lintzenich at his best, the Billikens have other country team has completed its schedule. University City High, the undefeated champions, has officially closed its season, but the entire squad is holding light practice daily, as Coach Muhl is endeavoring to coach a post-season game with A. A. U. Trojans (A. A. U. High had been arranged, but was canceled and University City is still receiving out of town offers, but it is indefinite if any will be accepted.

Normandy will be given the edge on Wells on the basis of comparative scores. Normandy has a good defensive team and an offense based on Norman Wagner and "Shorty" Strasser that will prove difficult for the light Wells team to stop.

Kirkwood and Webster have been traditional rivals for years, but due to difficulties the teams have not met for the past three seasons. The game is always bitterly fought and both schools make this game the hardest of the season. Kirkwood has a far more impressive record than Webster and 15 doped to win. The Webster backfield, which has been the outstanding part of the team, will find it difficult to break through the powerful Kirkwood line. George Harsh, the best line player in the county, and Walt Pedder, still make it interesting for Coach Robert's team.

Dempsey vs. Tunney

JACK DEMPSEY and Gene Tunney, former champions, are through with the profession that made them wealthy and Tex Rickard world-famous.

By reason of his promotions, Rickard's contact with both men has been very intimate. Probably he has a better slant on the characters of the two famous fighters than any individual in the country. His private views of the two men should be interesting.

Thus far Rickard has never contrasted the two greatest fighters of modern times but recently, to a New York reporter, he gave a tip-off as to his views. Turning to a picture of Dempsey on the wall, Rickard said:

"There is a wonder. He drew 9,000,000 persons to fights for me. There was never a man before or since who could do that. He's still the greatest sport news in the country today. Everyone was played a better grand of football. The surprise victory over Creighton is an example of the team's possibilities and it is not unlikely that Anderson's team will rise to the same heights on Thursday. If it does, it ought to win."

However, under ordinary circumstances, Washington's heavy line is likely to prove too tough for Anderson's pony backfield and it will take an effective passing game to advance the ball. The backfield now seems certain to include Lintzenich, Dirnbauer, Eaton and Parilla, but the starting line is still indefinite.

Kirkwood and Webster Meet In Annual Game

New York Yanks Win.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The New York Yankees, showing a reversal of form, easily defeated the Chicago Cardinals yesterday, 13 to 0, in a National professional league football game. Red Smith, fleet Yankee halfback, scored two touchdowns, tore off one 41-yard-run and was prevented from tallying a third touchdown by an offside penalty on the play that took him over the goal line. Kelly made a pass in the final quarter.

Distance! Selectivity and TONE on the Philco ELECTRIC RADIO

Philco Philadelphia Gentlemen:—

The Philco is not only an ornament to the home, but also a most pleasing musical instrument. The tone is exceptionally beautiful. It is pleasantly mellow but is minus the objectionable roar found in so many modern sets. It is pleasant in all the instruments of an orchestra, for instance, and eliminates the unmusical "rain barrel" effect while retaining the deepest and softest tones of the bass instruments.

The ability to get an unusually large number of distant stations is an alluring feature. And I have never yet had to use the "finer tuning" dial, so sharp is the tuning ability of the single dial control.

Yours truly, Mr. Wilson is widely known in his city as a violin and choir leader. His letter is one of many coming to us every day from all parts of the country, attesting words of praise for the Philco.

Wonderful Selectivity

Gentlemen: I have had a good many radios in my home, but I have never had any quite as selective as the Philco. I find it very easy at almost any time to tune in between thirty and forty stations.

Powerful stations which usually tune very broadly I can tune out within one or two points on the Philco dial. This wonderful selectivity seems to be the outstanding feature of my set, although the tone quality and distance getting ability leave nothing to be desired.

J. DIXON DAVIS Cincinnati, Ohio

Daytime Reception

The first night the Philco was in my home, I turned the dial and heard music. I certainly was surprised when I heard the announcer say KFI, Los Angeles. It came in as loud as any of the local stations.

During the day my wife gets many distant stations—Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Florida and many stations with low power. We are certainly pleased.

HUGE FUNNEL PUT IN BURNING GAS WELL TO CHECK FLAMES

Spouting Blaze Near Santa Fe Springs, Cal., Consuming 50,000,000 Cubic Feet Daily.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA FE SPRINGS, Cal., Nov. 25.—A huge steel funnel was dropped over the mouth of the Santa Fe Springs oil field gas well which has been spouting a red flame 100 feet into the air since it blew in nearly three weeks ago. The funnel acts as a chimney, confining the flames and preventing damage to surrounding oil derricks or wells.

A dozen attempts were made by asbestos clad oil field workers before the funnel finally was put in place. Several times the force of the spouting flames hurled the four-ton device from the grip of the derrick.

After the funnel had been placed, work was resumed to dig a tunnel to the well 30 feet below the surface, where it is hoped to tap the well and turn the escaping gas into another channel, thus extinguishing the fire. The tunnel, started 180 feet from the well, is expected to be completed in 48 hours.

The burning "gusher" is estimated to be consuming 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

WHAT A DOCTOR KNOWS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

There IS a way of overcoming the tendency to constipation. And here is how you can PROVE it.

The next time your bowels need any assistance, don't take the first laxative that comes to mind. Take one the druggist can assure you is made with CASCARA. Just as effective as using force, and it's good for the system. Indeed, it helps make good blood. For cascara is nothing but the bark of a tree. The Indians chew this bark, and live to an old age without a day's sickness.

What happens when you cascaraize the bowels? They will usually function well for SEVERAL DAYS. One more dose—no larger, and perhaps smaller than the first—and the bowels function of their own accord for a still longer time. Until you don't feel the need of any aid of any sort for weeks-on-end.

So, the only habit you get from cascara is that of natural and normal regularity. How different from things one must usually repeat on the morrow! Cascara is the ideal laxative; and the familiar little candy Cascaret is doubtless its ideal form. Children beg for these tasty tablets, and many men and women wouldn't think of taking ANYTHING else for the purpose. And EVERY drug store has them.

THE VANISHING NAPOLEON

By Evelyn Johnson and Gretta Palmer.

EMIL BORCO is one of the most fascinating figures that modern finance and big business have produced. His origin is very obscure. Some people will assure you that he was the son of a laundress in Ajaccio, others will assert that his father was a French traveling salesman and his mother the daughter of a second-rate brigand. At any rate his early history is in some way connected with Corsica, and it has provided some very nice lines for the Graphic, in view of the late Mr. Bonaparte's derivation.

Our financial Napoleon started working for a banker in Marseilles, and somehow scraped together enough francs to start playing with the exchange. By devious and picturesque methods, he built up a fantastic fortune and a fabulous reputation on the Stock Exchange in the daily papers. For Emil Borco was a man given to large gestures and sweeping tactics. He seemed incapable of dealing in reasonable figures. His transactions were in millions. He had 11 homes, 120 pairs of shoes and three wives. None of the three wives were current, however; at the time of his most mysterious and devastating appearance in the headlines. The last had just been dispensed with and was disposing of her huge settlement as her taxes and talents directed. Emil Borco had very few ties. He traveled with retinues of people, but no human being had a real part in his life. The professions of secretaries and valets and doctors and beautiful ladies were his figures.

Emil Borco had always had a passion for mechanical things. He did not like to read, he did not like formal society. He scorned the household nouveau-riche collector. He had one mania; he spent long patient hours and huge sums on motorboats and automobiles and radios and wireless freaks and airplanes. Especially planes. On his French estate he had a Fokker, two small cruisers, a Dornier flying boat and a marvelous specially built Lockheed Vega. He had had it constructed along the same general lines as the stock cabin plane, but it was much larger, had a lavatory and pantry, and the most superb interior, especially designed by Ruhlman, with huge observation windows, built-in bookcases, and a fascinating dining-alcove. He had an immense working hangar built, and became amazingly proficient himself as a pilot and mechanic. He was fond of making changes in the construction and equipment of his fleet, often working on the plane himself.

Lately there were rumors that the huge fortune had dwindled. He had not done anything sensational in the market for months. It was pretty well-known in financial circles that he had been refused the loan he had sought in America. The last Mrs. Borco had been making a great deal of trouble over the finality of her divorce decree, and the courts were upholding her. This fact was coupled with the rumor that one of the seemingly innumerable female relatives of the late Caesar of the Russias had been seen frequently in his company. One of the private secretaries had been indiscreet enough to whisper that Emil was very anxious to make his Slavic charmer the fourth Mrs. Borco.

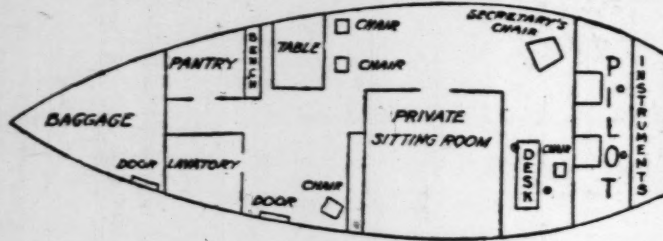

Then suddenly the headlines broke loose. Emil Barco had disappeared from his cherished Lockheed Vega while he was crossing from his French estate to his Scottish shooting-box.

Several great nations seemed a little uncertain as to who was the logical investigator. Finally the Surete got to work. First they interviewed the other persons in the plane at the time. These were a pilot, a secretary, a stenographer and a steward. The pilot knew nothing further than the fact that the plane had been turned over to him at 9 the morning of the 11th by the second mechanic of the French hangar. He had looked over his engine and equipment. Mr. Barco had appeared at five minutes to 11, and they had taken off a few minutes after. He had noticed nothing unusual on the way. About a quarter of the way over, the secretary had told him that Mr. Barco had disappeared, and they turned back to France. He had at a quarter of 11 and gotten into the plane. At a few minutes to 11 her employer had come aboard, he had dictated three letters to her and then sat down in the rear of the cabin to read a paper. She could not be sure, but she thought she heard the door of the lavatory close a little later. The next thing she knew the secretary asked what had become of Mr. Barco and then went into the lavatory, looked around of the staff. The estate was only a few kilometers from a huge manufacturing town, so it was impossible to trace him after he had presumably walked into the station. The last person who remembered seeing him was the boy who worked around the hangar.

So, dropping that line of investigation, the French police began experimenting on the plane. The papers had been playing with the idea that Borco had mistaken the outside door of the plane for the door to the lavatory and stepped off into space. The police reconstructed the conditions which "had existed, and found it virtually impossible for even an enormously strong man to open the door by hurling himself against it; for some one as small and frail as Borco, it seemed incredible. Of course there had been all sorts of rumors about collusion with the other occupants of the plane. The papers cited the fact, which had somehow seeped out to the press, that Borco had withdrawn a million dollars in cash a few days before the disappearance. Half clouds. The pilot, did, however, remember hearing noises in the lavatory shortly after.

The secretary said he had missed Borco, looked in the pantry and lavatory and then turned the ship back. There had been nothing unusual in the great man's actions the day before. He had been very depressed for some time, except when he was working or when his interest was aroused by some new mechanical wonder. All the comic-opera staff of the house and garage and hangar gave their testimony without any seemingly significant fact coming to light. The French detectives pieced together the story of his last day and evening. He always rose extremely early. Around 5 or 5:30 as a rule. The day before his disappearance he had, as usual, driven for almost two hours in his Mercedes. He did this in for bribes and half to escape, said the writers of special articles. There were rumors of stupendous bull operations on the stocks that Borco was known to hold. As a matter of fact, some one had benefited enormously by the tragedy. For several months past some one had been selling short huge quantities of these same stocks. Accounts had been opened by mail in a dozen different London brokerage firms. These accounts were transacted through addresses in six or eight different European cities. The identity of the manipulator was undiscoverable. The accounts were all summarily closed after the operator had taken the profits on the immediate flop after the announcement of Borco's disappearance. Then the police discovered another sensational fact. The secretary who had accompanied Borco on the fatal lieu of exercise, which he detested. He was a small, thin, wiry man in spite of his total lack of physical exertion, and he claimed that he did his thinking on these rides, which were conducted at the highest rate of speed that the chauffeur could coax out of the great motor. He had breakfasted, worked in his office until lunch, and entertained several prominent French officials for that meal. Apparently they had not come up to his expectation as he had left his guests before the coffee was served. He had wanted some sort of private road franchise from his estate to the neighboring city, and his political guests had been unable to oblige, so he had felt able to dispense with their society, according to one of the ballet of secretaries. No one of them knew all his business; it was a case of piecing together each little parcel of knowledge about the actions of the Corsican. As he was incessantly traveling, and constantly changing the personnel of his retinue, the secret was extremely difficult. He had spent the afternoon in the hangar tinkering with the little cruiser, according to the assistant mechanic and the boy who took care of the workshop. Borco and the chief mechanic had been working together, he was certain, because he had brought them wine and sandwiches around four. Mr. Borco had called him at a quarter to five and told him to be sure not to touch the pieces of the cruiser as it would have to wait to be re-assembled until after he got back from Scotland. Then Borco had gone back to the house, as he had a call from New York coming in at 4. He took his call and then motored to Paris and spent the evening with his Russian, getting back to the estate about 1. The next morning he had omitted his usual early morning ride, and spent the entire time until he left in the plane getting his business out of the way.

One thing was unfortunate—the chief plane mechanic had left on his vacation the night before. One of the secretaries had arranged for it several weeks before, but he did not know where he had gone. "One seemed to know much about the mechanic. He was a small, slender man. A quiet, surly Brest man, with no friends among the rest flight had actually deposited almost one hundred thousand dollars in a bank in Lyons the day before the flight. His explanation was peculiar. He was fearfully rattled and almost a nervous wreck when questioned by the Surete. He insisted that Borco himself had merely given him the money and asked him to deposit it in his own name until a certain date, as he wished to keep it in reserve for a certain purpose. The secretary was used to his employer's quixotic and secretive methods, and although he had been surprised and mystified, he had obeyed. This seemed very thin to the police. The papers immediately took up the tale. In England the consensus of opinion seemed to be that this was the famous bribe come to light, the more lurid American journals proclaimed that the secretary had shoved Borco through a window. The lavatory window was large enough. This one hundred thousand was only a part of the million Borco had on his person. The rest he hid in his banks scattered all over Europe. Speculation ran rife for several weeks, without any new facts coming to light. Then there was a sensation. Borco's body had been found in the channel, terribly smashed—the face crushed, the ribs and legs broken—horribly swollen from the water, but wearing Borco's watch, and several other marks of identification. It was impossible to identify the body by the teeth, as Borco had had no dental work done for years, and his previous dentist could not be located. The stories of the stenographer, the secretary, and the steward were so confirmatory on the main points that very little headway could be made in that direction. The police were never able to produce the least proof that the secretary had had any hand in the affair, the others seemed almost out of the question, and the missing chief mechanic never turned up, even if he could have thrown any light on the problem. Some of the papers thought his disappearance pointed even more and was ducking out of the way of investigation. Forco's Russian inamorata had apparently gone back to Russia. As far as the French police could learn she had crossed the frontier about a week after the famous flight, but they were never able to trace her across the border.

Now's the Time to Fill Christmas Boxes

CHRISTMAS is a good time to show good will to others. In most churches and charity organizations it is customary to send Christmas boxes to far off lands, to hospitals and institutions which those less fortunate than yourself call home.

These boxes contain articles which express a feeling of good will to others. They are not always new articles, but just something the donor feels like passing on with a friendly feeling of good will.

Now, before the Christmas rush begins, is a good time to look over your wardrobe, the children's toys, the stack of books and that crowded storeroom. You may be heartily tired of that dress or coat and how glad that gift would make some inmate of an institution! You have bought many new books and will never read them a second time. What pleasure you would be giving some shut-in with this donation.

Among that collection of toys there surely is one, possibly more, not quite perfect, or perhaps your child has outgrown the toy, and what delight you would be passing on to some unfortunate kiddie with this gift.

Surely among that motley array of discarded household effects is something a less fortunate family would be very grateful for. Such a gift will not cost you a cent and yet it may give far more real pleasure than the gifts you make at a great expenditure of time, thought and money.

Make your good will gift as generous as your stock on hand permits—it is one way of bringing joy to others and that is the real Christmas spirit.

Homelike.

It is nice to have lights burning in the downstairs hall and living room even if the family is spending the evening upstairs. Be sure these lamps are of low voltage and this homelike touch will not prove expensive.

Woman Finds Cherries Canned Fifty Years Ago

RELATIVES of Mrs. James Martling of New Rochelle, N. Y., reported yesterday that while taking inventory of food stocks in her home she found a glass jar of cherries she canned 50 years ago.

She cleaned the dust off the jar and the appearance of the preserved cherries has not changed, so far as she remembers, in the half century they have been put up in the airtight container. The fifty-year-old cherries have not yet been sampled.

It is really surprising, almost, the way a man takes to this delicately flavored bread. Most likely after you've served it once, your husband will insist on getting it every time.

You see, every loaf of Wonder Bread is slo-baked. That's the only way we can secure that delicate flavor everyone likes so much in bread.

And then, too, we take great care

WESTERN Judge, who complains women on juries are a failure, is all wrong. As for failure, female jurors like prisoners will do the right thing if they're given time.

Get a close-up of our trial-by-jury system. You'll learn something worth while.

Time: Midnight. Scene: Interior of a mixed jury room. Exterior shows the Sheriff peering through the keyhole.

Foreman (rapping for order with a carriage board): Ladies and gentlemen, the result of the thirty-first ballot shows 11 for conviction and one for acquittal. Mrs. Bumpus is holding out.

Mixed chorus of jurors and juror: Oh, Mrs. Bumpus, why are you so stubborn?

Mrs. Bumpus: I'm not stubborn. But I've sent three men to the electric chair this week and I feel I ought to acquit somebody before this session's over.

Juror No. 1: 'ut, my dear, there's no doubt this man shot his wife. You can tell by the nasty look on his face. And, besides, his eyes are green. I hate green—it doesn't match my complexion.

Mrs. Bumpus: Green isn't a bad color if you aren't a blonde. You should have seen the emerald bathing suit I had last summer.

Juror No. 2: Speaking of green, let's send the Sheriff after some lime drops, girls.

Made chorus of jurors: Make mine a mint julep. (The Sheriff smiles.)

Foreman: Mrs. Bumpus, can't you persuade this man is guilty? Surely, you don't regard a murder as lightly?

Mrs. Bumpus: No, it isn't that. I haven't had any use for murder since one of my actors in Hollywood. But it's midnight now, Mr. Foreman. And if I vote yes and make it unanimous, I'll get home about 6 o'clock in the morning, and I know my husband left a sinkful of dishes.

Foreman: But what is justice compared with a sinkful of dishes? Mrs. Bumpus: I'll bite. What is it?

Foreman: This isn't a riddle. I am simply trying to get a unanimous verdict.

Mrs. Bumpus: Well, try and get it.

Foreman: Here we have six jurors and six jurresses. No half-drawn women since the original Florida sextet ever looked so pliant. It seems a pity we can't agree.

Mrs. Bumpus (boiling at 212 degrees Fahrenheit): WHO can't agree?

Foreman: You and the rest of us.

Mrs. Bumpus: I can agree with anyone. I'm an agreeable woman. Why, in 17 years of married life I never so much as raised a frying pan at my Charley. (Cloudburst of tears followed by general clearing up and fresh northerly supply of sniffles.)

Foreman: I'm awfully sorry. Now, why can't we—

Mrs. Bumpus: But I won't send another man to the chair this week.

Juror No. 3: Well, dearie, why not vote to hang him?

Mrs. Bumpus: That's different. I might do that.

Juror No. 2: I knew you'd be reasonable, dearie.

Mrs. Bumpus: How do they go about hanging him?

Juror No. 3: Oh, it's the loveliest ceremony! First they put a loose-fitting hat over his head—my size 9½. Then they have a poke around his neck, light brown hair, I think the material is. It's sort of draped over the shoulders and caught up with a knot in the back. It's awfully becoming to some men. Then, just at the right time, the flooring gives way and the yoke is gathered up tight around the neck and it gives a kind of dangling effect.

Mrs. Bumpus: Oh, perfectly gorgeous! I vote for that. (It is a vote.) (Copyright, 1928.)

A Bazar Suggestion

ANY TREE will prove a lucrative feature at the fall bazar. Use a suitable limb, or perhaps you can get a dead bush that will answer the purpose. Set this firmly into a base, which should be fastened to the floor. Cover the base with green paper money to simulate grass.

On the bare tree, paste leaves cut from magazine. Write a number on a strip of paper and trap this around a bit of cotton, then inclose this in brown crepe paper to represent a nut. You will probably need a quantity of these to supply the demand. Hang the nuts on the tree and sell them at five or 10 cents.

Have numbered packages piled under the tree, and as the customers present the numbers contained in the nuts, the corresponding number. Use a brush to put the numbers on the packages, so they can readily be recognized.

To prepare dates for use in cooked mixtures, wash them in warm water and allow to soak for 10 minutes. The dates will soften and the seeds then may be easily stripped out and the dates mashed a little.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given. Attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope.

SOBREM M.—The twenty-first star in the American flag may be said to represent Illinois. The relation between stars in the American flag and the admission of states into the Union is as follows: The flag resolution passed by Congress June 14, 1777, established the American flag as a flag of 13 stars on a white field, with 12 stripes of alternate red and white. The credit for making the first flag is universally given Mrs. George Ross, her husband's uncle, was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. The story of its making is more or less familiar to all. In 1791 Vermont was admitted to the Union and Kentucky in 1792. In 1795 an act was proposed to change the number of stars in the flag to 15. There was opposition to this, some wanting to hold to the 13 original stars, but the act of 1795 was passed. The flag of 15 stars was the national emblem for 23 years. Three wars were fought under it, against Tripoli, 1801 to 1805, and against France, 1798 to 1800; with Great Britain, 1812 to 1815, and with Mexico, 1846 to 1848. It was this flag which waved over Fort Mifflin in 1814, inspiring Francis Scott Key to write "The Star-Spangled Banner." Exactly 11 months after the change to 15 stars, Tennessee was admitted to the Union in 1796. Louisiana in 1803, Louisiana in 1812, Indiana in 1816 and Mississippi in 1820. Representative Pendleton introduced a resolution into the House which caused the changing of the flag to have 20 stars, by an act of July 4, 1818. This reads, in part: "An Act to Establish the Flag of the United States. Be it enacted, that from and after the fourth day of July next the flag of the United States be 13 horizontal stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union have 20 stars, white on a blue field. Section 2. Be it further enacted, that on the admission of every new State in the Union, one star be added to the union of the flag, and that such addition shall take effect on the fourth day of July succeeding the admission." States were admitted to the Union as follows: Illinois, 1818; Alabama, 1819; Maine, 1820; Missouri, 1820; Arkansas, 1836; Michigan, 1837; Florida, 1845; Texas, 1845; Iowa, 1846; Wisconsin, 1848; California, 1850; Minnesota, 1858; Oregon, 1859; Kansas, 1861; West Virginia, 1863; Nevada, 1864; Nebraska, 1867; Colorado, 1876; North Dakota, 1889; South Dakota, 1889; Montana, 1889; Washington, 1889; Idaho, 1890; Wyoming, 1890. In anticipation of the admission of Utah in 1896, the forty-fifth state, an order was also issued by Secretary of War Daniel S. Lamont that after July 4, 1896, the national flag in use in the army "will consist of 45 stars in six rows, the first, third and fifth rows to have eight, the second, fourth and sixth to have seven stars each, in a blue field, arranged as on a sketch which he submitted." Since the admission of Utah in 1896, the States admitted are Oklahoma, 1907; New Mexico, 1912, and Arizona, 1912.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

ANXIOUS.—The Prosecuting Attorney will prosecute the youth for you, but he will not collect damages for you. If you have not already done so you should employ a lawyer for that.

R. V. O.—In case you killed the person you shot at you could be prosecuted for killing them, or in order to prevent their escape. The court would probably reduce the allowance for the support, but we cannot say as to what amount. The father can apply to the court which granted the divorce to reduce the allowance. He should consult a lawyer.

MAR-—If your letter is understood, you voted for Smith and Robinson by voting for 18 presidential electors. (You can vote for President and Vice President by voting for electors. A cross in the circle at the head of the ticket is sufficient without marking the electors.)

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

JOCELYN.—In the absence of knowledge, personal, professional, or otherwise, of the merits of the treatment asked about, advice cannot be offered.

MISS CURIOUS.—In the condition of being hypo-thyroid at the age of 34, and the taking of such powerful drugs as you mention, the services of a competent physician is absolutely necessary. Without this, harm instead of benefit may result. The best service this department can offer you is to recommend the name of a capable physician, instead of offering any suggestions. If in need of the names, send stamped, addressed envelope. The craving for sweets may result from a cause only to be found out by thorough examination.

THANK YOU.—Diet recommendation for a person while without teeth is a soft diet including liquids, Panopon, liquid peptoids, bovineum, malted milk, all soups (home-made or canned), cereals such as cream of wheat, Ralston's cereals, beef bullion, ice cream, sweet milk, butter, milk, and many others that be suggested by a visit to drug store or grocery.

Applauds Settlement of Internal Disorders, in Speech at Luncheon to President on Warship.

10,000 IN CORINTO
WELCOME VISITOR

Town Gay With Flags—
Maryland's Next Stop
Will Be at Punta Arenas,
Costa Rica.

By the Associated Press.
ABOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND
OFF CORINTO, Nicaragua, Nov.
25.—Congratulations upon Nicaragua's settlement of its internal disorders were extended today by Herbert Hoover to President Diaz, retiring executive of Nicaragua, President-elect Moncada and former President Chamorro, who were luncheon guests aboard the battleship Maryland.

The three political leaders of the republic came aboard the battleship ship soon after it arrived at the port this morning and to them President-elect Hoover delivered a brief extemporaneous address in lieu of making a speech.

"Nicaraguan Unity."
"I feel greatly honored," Hoover said, "that I should have on this occasion been welcomed not only by the President of Nicaragua but by the President-elect and the former President."

"Representing the political parties of Nicaragua who have been lately in conflict, this occasion becomes one of much more than ordinary interest. It represents the growing unity of the Nicaraguan people. It represents the consolidation of the forces of domestic peace. It demonstrates that the difficult national crisis into which our own country has been drawn has now reached a basis of solution which merits the deepest thankfulness of all our peoples and for which I wish to congratulate the leaders of the Nicaraguan nation."

The presidential group lunched on the Maryland's quarter-deck, which had been decorated with greenery for the occasion.

Fires Presidential Salute.
The battleship arrived at 7 o'clock to find the anchorage shared by the American cruisers Rochester and Tulsa. A national salute of 21 guns was fired by the Maryland as it came to a halt. Nicaragua is the third country to be visited by the Hoover good-will party, which came here from Honduras and San Salvador, where Hoover yesterday delivered the first two speeches of the trip.

Hoover landed in Corinto at 10:15 a. m. He was officially welcomed by Diaz, Chamorro and Moncada.

Several members of the Cabinet were also in the welcoming party and a big crowd gave him a splendid popular greeting.

Corinto was gaily decorated with flags, bunting and welcome signs. One feature of the reception plans was the appearance of "Miss Nicaragua," a recent beauty prize winner, as the "Statue of Liberty" on a pedestal at the Corinto waterfront.

At least 10,000 persons had crowded into this little port to welcome the President-elect. The United States flag was flying from numerous buildings.

An interesting sidelight of the gathering here was a dinner at which President-elect Moncada was present with President Diaz and former President Chamorro, against both of whom he had fought in the struggle of 1926 and 1927.

A complement of 73 marines will be taken aboard here to serve as escort for Mr. Hoover throughout the remainder of his journey.

The Maryland sails late today for Punta Arenas, Costa Rica.

Hoover Makes Good Will Speeches in Salvador and Honduras.
President-elect Hoover in his first speeches on his present trip told the people of Honduras and Salvador yesterday that he was bringing them a call of friendship on behalf of the people of the United States. Both addresses, one at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, the other at San Salvador, were brief.
